Sets Of New South African Coins On Sale

Sets of the new decimal coins from 50 cents down to the half-cent, can now be obtained from the South African Mint, at a cost of 12 shillings sixpence, including postage and insurance, according to a report from the Mint.

They can be applied for to the Director, South African Mint, Pretoria, Union of South Africa. Only the exact amount should be sent, as officials do not wish to be involved in the extra work making change would require.

Coin collectors in England have ordered many such sets, and just one London dealer alone recently ordered 300 sets in anticipation of such demand. He said:

"I have many regular customers who automatically take all new coins issued anywhere, but since this represents such an important departure from previous coinage, the demands should be much greater."

The new South African one cent coins are the same size as the "penny" they replace, but look more like brass than copper.

On one side is the old covered wagon used by the pioneers, with South Africa in both English and Afrikaans and also 1961; on the other side is the head of Jan van Riebeeck, with "Unity is Strength" in both languages.

Breen Adds To Fake Facts

Walter Breen, noted numismatic authority, declares that some fake 1916-D dimes do not show tool marks or scratches near the D but merely minor discoloration or a thin seam.

He made this statement in a current Whitman publication, Coin Supply Merchandiser.

"Sometimes one has to use a 50X or 60X glass to be sure," Breen continued. "The usual quality has the D entirely too large and the wrong shape. There were several reverse dies used on genuine 1916-D coins, and the D position differs from one die to another as the mintmark was punched in by hand," the authority concluded.

High Finances!

Today it costs a dollar for an item that cost one cent 50 years ago. Why it even costs a dollar for the one cent.

Jefferson Key Figure On Assay Medal

Statesman Thomas Jefferson — the man who insisted upon decimal currency system for the United States from the beginning — was the subject for the obverse of the 1961 Assay Commission medal, presented to members of the commission as a climax of their service February 8 when they checked the nation's silver coinage at the Philadelphia Mint. An artistic treatment of the process of pouring gold appears on the reverse with the legend, Annual Assay Commission, 1961, United States Mint, Philadelphia. Photograph of this medal was supplied to Coin World through the courtesy of C. A. Seiple, Canton, Ohio, president of the Peoples Merchant Trust Co., and permanent chairman of the 1961 Assay Commission.

Whitman Books Will List Varieties Of 1960 Cents

Large and small date 1960 cents will be listed in future editions of Whitman's Guide Book and Handbook. Both the regular coins and proof sets will be so designated. In-between or sub-varieties will not be listed.

This declaration came today from the Racine, Wis., firm after careful analysis of a survey concerning the controversial 1960 cent varieties. Hundreds of collectors and dealers were polled to determine their attitude.

Other decisions reached by the publishing firm on the basis of the survey are:

The 1945-S microscopic S dime will be added to future editions of the Guide Book. Other varieties will be periodically reviewed for popularity trends.

The large and small date 1960 cents will not be called for in the

No. 9030 Whitman 35 cent blue coin folders. Space for the two varieties will, however, be provided for in the more expensive Whitman albums—the All-In-One album, the Plasticlad holder and the new Bookshelf acetate slide album.

The 1856 flying eagle cent and the 1913 Liberty nickel will be removed from the blue coin folders. At some future date there is a possibility that the 1909-S VDB cent and other scarce coins should be closed with a "rare" plug.

Whitman officials said the survey revealed there are definitely two recognizable varieties of the 1960-P and-D mint Lincoln cents. The small date varieties of these cents are considered to be much scarcer than the large dates, and while many other coin varieties are much more important in a numismatic sense than the 1960 cents, these coins became extremely popular almost overnight.

"The popularity of these coins was undoubtedly brought about by the publicity they received in newspapers and by certain dealers," the Whitman findings concluded. "Speculation interests controlled the market for several months during 1960."

Winkians Blink At Excess Coin; Lawmen Turn Out

Alert officers picked up two men in the far West Texas town of Kermit last week after suspicious merchants in nearby Wink had called the Sheriff's Department. The merchants reported that two strangers were trying to convert large amounts of change into bills.

Held for questioning, the two men revealed that they were coin collectors who had checked some bagged coins and were simply returning them to circulation. From the smaller towns of Wickett and Goldsmith, they had been unable to convert sufficient quantities of the coins with their local merchants.

They were released....but not before they had checked the officers' change for valuable coins.

Final decision was what the majority wanted—566 for including the varieties; 522 against, according to Whitman.

Complete text of the survey questions and answers, as furnished by the Whitman firm, is as follows:

1. Do you feel that the 1960 small and large date cents are important in the numismatic history of the United States?

There were 942 answers received; 596 voted no; against only 346, yes, votes. Few people commented on this question; some compared the coins to the 1909 VDB or other varieties. Many gave a flat "H---, no."

2. Do you think that the popularity of these cents will remain constant or increase in future years?

A total of 871 answers were received. 483 voted, no; 388 voted, yes. Most collectors felt that the popularity and price of these varieties would increase.

Mint Bureau Asks Increase

There will be no shortage of Lincoln cents in 1961, if the Bureau of the Mint has its way. It has asked Congress for an extra $225,500 to produce 300 million additional one-cent coins by June 30.

In addition, Federal Reserve banks in New York, Boston and Philadelphia are rationing shipments of cents to commercial banks in their areas.

At the same time, Bureau of the Mint figures show that the amount of coins on hand at the Treasury and at Reserve banks has increased from $53.4 million to $90.2 million since January 1.

Mint officials say they expect no serious shortage nationally, at least until the Easter shopping season is well under way, but they intend to avoid it if possible.

Strike Delays Mail

Delayed advertising and editorial copy mailed for Coin World's March 2 issue can be blamed upon the nation's snarled and interrupted air transportation, brought about by the flight engineers' strike.

Eastern Sale Takes On Air Of Convention

A high relief 1907 St. Gaudens $20 gold piece sold for $18,250 to top off a dual coin auction of U.S. and foreign material catalogued by Hans M. F. Schulman, New York City, and Abner Kreisberg, Beverly Hills, California, in a four-session, three-day sale in New York last week.

Overflowing the auction room in the Waldorf Astoria Hotel, crowds of collectors gathered in convention-like gaiety in the corridors outside to trade coins as Donald D'Amato, auctioneer, inside was touting the 3,123 lots that brought "close to $300,000."

"The platinum pieces were a terrific success," said Hans Schulman, commenting on one of the three consignments of foreign coins in the February 16, 17, and 18 auction: The Atlas collection of coins of the world, the Metzler collection of Peruvian coins, and the German collection of gold and platinum.

Star of the sale was the exceedingly rare extra high relief 1907 St. Gaudens twenty dollar gold piece. This coin, with Roman numerals, was the first variety (of four in all) struck from the design by sculptor Augustus Saint Gaudens. It sold to a southwest collector.

Acclaimed one of the world's most beautiful coins, it is thicker than the regular issue. The relief is much higher, the design is so concave that the word Liberty and the stars on obverse and the legend on reverse are partly at an angle.

New evidence brought to light at this sale was the fact that only 13 of these pieces were struck. Previously it was thought 16 were made.

This coin was the third to have been offered at auction and brought $18,250 in lot 1417 against an estimate of $25,000.

Other $20 gold pieces to be noted are: The Paquet reverse 1861-S, lot 1359, which brought $2,250; lot 1366, an 1870-CC, the first year of the CC mint twenties, sold for $4,200; a gem proof 1874, only 20 minted, sold in lot 1369, for $2,000.

(A full treatment from the catalogers' point of view of this sale will be carried in Hans Schulman's column next week.)

Here are some of the prices realized on some of the outstanding lots, as reported by Abner Kreisberg:

A complete set of Stellas, four coins, both types of coiled hair and flowing hair for the two dates, 1879 and 1880, all gem proof specimens, one of only 10 possible sets, lot 1150, $39,500.

Shapiro Buys 1944 Steel Cent For $625

As a result of the story in last week's Coin World, on the 1944 steel cent, owned by Q. David Bowers, Binghamton, N. Y., Joe Shapiro of the Syracuse Stamp & Coin Co., Syracuse, N. Y., bought the coin at Bowers' asking price of $625.

Shapiro said he plans to resell it, and has put a $5,000 price tag on it. Bowers commented that he had received all he wanted for the coin.

A Charlotte mint gold set, complete except for one quarter eagle, the set consisting of eight dollars, 18 quarter eagles, and 23 half eagles in very fine to uncirculated condition, lot 1460, $7,500.

A complete set of 1915 Pan Pacific coins in original copper frame, five uncirculated coins as issued, lot 915, $6,700. Another $50 round sold separately in lot 916 for $3,350.

Quite a selection of $50 gold pieces were offered in this sale. Most outstanding was a pair of August Humbert slugs; a lettered edge in proof sold in lot 930, for $5,300; the reeded edge in uncirculated condition sold, in lot 931, for $5,350.

An unknown variety of the date "185" (actually 1851) sold in lot 932 for $2,850; lot 933, a "pleasing specimen" sold for $2,775; lot 938, a U. S. Assay Office gold slug, sold for $2,375.

New York Dealers Merge

Formation of a new coin dealership by two long time dealers was announced today by Jack Drucker and Yvette Haas, of the New York City area. The name of the new firm to be: Drucker-Haas Coin Corporation, 80 Nassau street, New York 8, N. Y.

Jack Drucker has been a collector for 25 years and a dealer for the past five years, recently located at 3800 Poplar avenue, Brooklyn. Yvette Haas comes from a collecting family as her father was once offered the 1913 Liberty nickel for $1,000. She has been a dealer with Haas and Haas, Forest Hills, N. Y., for the past two years.

Drucker will handle the purchasing and selling while Mrs. Haas will be business and office manager for the firm which, the new owners assert, will be the only one of its type in New York.

They will have auctions, carry uncirculated rolls, key singles, gold, all coins of a numismatic nature, numismatic supplies and will also do a wholesale business.

An open house by the new owners is planned for the first week of March but they expect to have the new suite open for business possibly by February 25.

A cordial invitation is extended to all dealers and collectors to drop in at the new location and extend greetings.

ities would soon find a realistic level and remain constant for a long time.

3. Do you think that these cents will lose their popularity soon?

Of the 896 votes received on this question, an overwhelming majority of 571 predicted the popularity would drop in the near future. A look at the current market shows that they were right. 327 thought the popularity would remain high.

4. Do you believe that a small group of people are controlling the price of the 1960 cents?

There was no question about the attitude of the answers to this pot-boiler: 654 yes votes and only 192 no votes out of a total of 846. Many people cited facts and figures to substantiate their feelings. A few voters said that it would be impossible for any group of dealers to control the market and that collector interest was responsible for the prices.

Most of the no answers came in the last few weeks of voting and stated that they believed the market was being controlled at the beginning but no longer was after the big drop in price.

5. It has been estimated that two million of the 1960 Philadelphia small date cents were coined. Do you think that this figure is nearly correct?

Perhaps this question should not have been asked, since there is no way to tell for certain how many pieces were struck. The mint figures do not make any distinction between the two varieties. The two million pieces referred to were the cents coined at Philadelphia during January. No cents were coined there during February.

Some collectors claimed to have received large date cents during January or February and believed that the small date cents were coined only for a short time during January.

The facts are that several dies are made at one time and stored for use during the year. Approximately 400,000 cents can be produced from one pair of dies. The 2,019,800 cents coined at Philadelphia during January could have been produced during one normal working day using only five pairs of dies. Several presses could have been used simultaneously, striking both small and large date cents.

It does not seem logical that less than six small date dies were made. At least one of these (capable of striking 4,000 cents) was used for proof coins. The balance of these small date cent dies may have been discarded or may have been used indiscriminately throughout the entire year. A similar situation occurred at the Denver Mint. Everyone agrees that a much larger quantity of small date cents were coined at Denver.

Of the 715 people who answered this question, 391 felt that the two million figure was nearly correct. Only 98 felt it was too high and 226 felt it was too low.

6. Do you favor listing the large and small date cents in future editions of the Guide Book? A total of 1,088 answers were received for this, the most important question. 566 people voted in favor of listing the varieties in the book. 522 people voted against making any distinction.

7. Your personal comments on the coin:

Nearly everyone took the time to state something about their feelings on the 1960 cents. The arguments against recognizing the varieties were mostly based on lack of numismatic importance of the coins and the theory that speculators were controlling the price—a fact that they felt would harm the hobby.

Those who were in favor of the coin claimed that it was important because it was the only recognizable variety of the Lincoln cent issued in recent years. As such, it should stimulate interest in the hobby.

A few of the more representative comments are quoted on the final pages of this report.

8. What other varieties of United States coins do you feel should be added or taken out of the Guide Book:

It was a pleasure to note that most of the answers to this question stated that the book was excellent just the way that it is and that no changes should be made. The following quotes made us feel particularly good:

"You have done an outstanding job of presenting maximum data at a minimum price, all to the benefit of numismatics and the individual collector. Little wonder that the Guide Book is the 'Bible' of U. S. coins!"

"You are doing a good job now, you be the judge."

"Why try to improve on perfection."

"We have an excellent book there now, so let's not change it."

Many good suggestions were made for adding or deleting coins from the book. The biggest offender is the 1955 double date cent. Other coins that some collectors would like removed from the book include the three legged 1937-D 5c; the 1942/1 10c; 1913 Liberty head 5c; 1804 dollar; 1856 F. E. cent and 1922-P cent. We feel, however, that all of these items have a definite place in the book for the time being and would be missed by many collectors if removed.

The 1934 light and heavy motto 25c; Lib-i-erty cents; 1939 re-engraved 5c; 1905 micro O 10c and 1945 micro S dime were all suggested as additions to the Guide Book. The 1945 micro S dime was the only coin that was repeatedly mentioned and we feel that this variety is now popular enough to be added to the book.

9. Should the 1960 large and small date cents be added to the Whitman blue coin folders?

A total of 916 people answered this question: 539 voted, no; 477 voted, yes.

It was interesting to note that 62 people who wanted the varieties in the reference books did not want them in the coin folders. The majority of opinions expressed may be summed up in the three following quotes:

"I feel that blue coin folders are a stimulus to beginners and should be kept in simple form without unnecessary varieties. As a collector progresses, he will want more elaborate folders."

"The blue folders should have a place for all standard coins. I think a special folder should be made for die breaks and mint errors for collectors who are interested in these items."

"This folder is usually the beginner's first album, why confront him with something most of the advanced collectors are lacking."

10. What other varieties of U. S. coins do you feel should be added or taken out of the blue coin folders?

All of the coins suggested for addition to the blue folders were either too rare or not popular enough to be given consideration. It would be impossible, of course, to remove the 1909-S VDB or any regular U. S. coins without destroying the continuity of the series.

The most objected to coins in the folders are the 1856 Flying Eagle cent and the 1913 Liberty head nickel. There is good reason to remove these coins, since they are not regular U. S. coins in any sense of the word.

Letters To The Editor

I have just received the third issue of Coin World on my year's subscription. Each issue seems to get better. I especially like your editorials. It is no wonder your subscriptions go up every week. I think it is a great idea to expand your Trend section. Keep up the good work.

Philip Beck
Woodbury, N. J.

Enclosed is my $5 money order to renew my subscription to Coin World. Being a subscriber to three of the other top numismatic periodicals, I believe that Coin World comes the closest to "true numismatics," bring the latest news to the reader. If they ever decide to honor somebody for furthering numismatics, you and your staff deserve that honor for your tireless efforts in publishing the weekly Coin World.

Irv. Reuben
Steubenville, Ohio

As most of your subscribers know, the January 26 issue of Coin World contained quite a howling advertisement on page 13 by Stanley Nowakowski. In his letter he asked, "How would I feel if I were to receive an Indian-head cent worth less than 70 cents, a BU 1955-S cent, or a Liberty-head nickel for the dollar?"

Well, I bit on his appeal to get something for nothing, as at that time I did not doubt his sincerity. I sent my five dollars for five grab-bag orders and got one BU 1955-S cent, one F Indian head 1905, one BU 1958 quarter, one fair 1911 nickel (with dents) and one VG 1915 Buffalo nickel. Giving Mr. Nowakowski the benefit of the top price range, I received $1.75 worth of coins for $5.00.

I believe I can now answer Mr. Nowakowski's question of, "How would I feel?"; the answer is SUCKER!

H. R. Stiles
Springfield, Ohio

Was wondering how many other suckers got bitten by this "crap bag" specials? Ya, you got something for your dollar. I can get a dollar's worth of pennies and pick more out of circulation!

Jim Kline
Kent, Ohio

This is to inform you that I sent $2.00 and got back 25c worth of coins. I hope this merits your attention for an investigation even though it might be on the border side of legality.

Bennie Bee
Denver, Colo.

I realize that it was a chance situation but I did mail the coins back to him to use for future deals with collectors in his next big sale but I asked him to donate my $5.00 bill to charity.

Ed Checkley
Coatesville, Pa.

I am on Cloud Nine as I received a letter from Stan which enclosed one 1880 about unc. $5 gold piece. This letter is a letter of thanks to Coin World for having such an ad. I'm also going to write a letter of thanks to Stan.

James E. Larson
Eugene, Oregon

I really didn't expect to get much, but was really surprised to receive a half-eagle in the mail. As Jeffery H. Goldstein stated in "letters to the editor," Mr. Nowakowski is as "honest as the day is long."

Jay E. Goldman
Brooklyn, N. Y.

Barnum was so right that it hurts!

Larry Toedte
Springfield, Ohio

Tell Stan that we fellows from way off didn't get a chance as the whole thing was called off by the time I got to read that issue.

H. B. DeHart
Williamstown, N. J.

Other letter-writing chance-takers who were "disappointed" include: Paul L. Brule, Kankakee, Ill.; Roby C. Leonard, Lexington, N. C.; H. R. Stiles, Springfield, Ohio; Eleanor L. Metzler, Millburn, N. J.; Mrs. Susie Phillips, Canaseraga, N. Y.; George J. Fleming, Chicago; James R. Sullivan, McCook, Neb.; Vincent E. Peters, York, Pa.; Wilson Baker, Fort Worth, Texas; Louis Friedland, Kent, Ohio; Mrs. Edward Towne, New York City; W. C. Kelsoe, Newtonville, Mass.; Wm. H. Kingzett, Cleveland, Ohio; Vincent F. Torhan, Springfield, N. J.; David Bowen, Sharon, Pa.

Jerry Perchesky, Watsonville, Calif.; George L. Feeser, Lebanon, Pa.; Adam P. O'Gorek, Buffalo, N. Y.; N. H. Stingley, Garden Grove, Calif.; George Dusio, Watsonville, Calif.; Vic Holmberg, Dallas, Texas; L. J. Maidhof, Carpinteria, Calif. Robert E. Bresemann, New York, N.Y.; F. Weber, Queens Village, N. Y.; and John E. Deren, South Bend, Ind.

(EDITOR'S NOTE—Mr. Nowakowski's advertisement did not guarantee a minimum value to any coin. Each and every person who sent in $1.00 or more did so of his own choice and free will. He or she did not have to participate. However, Coin World has discontinued the acceptance of any type of grab bag advertising with the February 16, 1961, edition.)

Your editorial of January 19 on banking relations accurately pictures the situation in many places. However, the other side of the coin grades much better.

About 18 months ago we formed a coin club and I was elected president. I went to one of our local bankers and told him I knew our members were a nuisance to his tellers, asked tolerance, especially for our younger members, and promised to cooperate to keep the situation in check.

The banker told me that he would talk to the tellers and see what the situation was and asked me to come back the next day. When I returned the banker told me that the tellers had been instructed to cooperate in every way and offered us the use of the well appointed meeting room of the bank for club meetings.

The janitor has cold drinks and hot coffee waiting for us when we arrive for our monthly meeting. We pass the hat and give him the take, usually after some junior member has looked at each coin.

After organizing the club things got worse at the teller's windows.

A fellow with $1 operating capital has to make a lot of trips to the bank Saturday morning before the bank closes at one, so we had to pass a rule that no members of the club would spend Saturday morning sitting on the floor of the lobby going through rolls.

A few other corrective measures and the problem ceased to exist. We had gone through all the money in the bank twice, and now when we ask for a roll or bag, the teller tells us who has already looked through the rolls and often shows the initials on the roll (club rule).

When coins come in from out of town, the tellers call our attention to it and offer to let us have all we want.

At the club meeting before Christmas, the bank gave each club member a magnifying glass with our club name printed on it, so our relations are o.k. so far.

The bank has made no money on our club, but they sure have made some firm friends.

Congratulations on your excellent publishing job.

I would like to comment on the new Coin World Trends of circulated coins as well as uncirculated. This will help many a person know what is a real buy if it is in the Trend's range.

I noticed the 1931-D dime in your Trends at $18-$22.50. I know many a person buying at $20 and some selling at nearly three times Redbook. Why is the 1942/1 dime eliminated? The 1918/17-D nickel, the 1918/17-S quarter, 22 plain cent and others are listed, so why not the 1942/1 dime. The 1918/17-D nickel is more rare uncirculated than the dime but it is still listed.

Delighted with your paper and especially your new additional page on circulated coin values. As a dealer it is a valuable guide (hat's off to Jim Kelly, too) to me, dealers and collectors, too. Keep up the progressive work.

Grading Of Coins Is Important

By Jim Kelly

333 West First St., Dayton 2, O.

Due to the human element of application, the grading of coins as to condition has always been one of the most controversial subjects of collecting. While a step in the right direction, Brown and Dunn's book on this subject only adds confusion to the issue because it is unrealistic and inconsistent. It is generally agreed that age alone should not alter condition requirements. Inferior dies and poor striking, when consistent on a certain coin, should be taken into accounting. However, a grading system should not be altered just because a coin is a hundred or more years old.

Jim Kelly

Equally true is the fact that a Buffalo or Jefferson nickel, or any coin of recent issue, should not be downgraded because of its youth. The Guide Book (Red Book), generally accepted as the standard of present day values, indicates the grading requirements on which these values are based.

Along with those set forth in the Standard Catalogue, these have been adequate and workable for United States as well as foreign coins for over fifty years. Certainly it is everyone's privilege to set up their own standard of grading, but they must, by the same token, also adjust their standard of values.

Following is the grading system as set forth in the Guide Book:

UNCIRCULATED—New. Regular mint striking but never placed in circulation. Older pieces may be tarnished or "toned."

EXTREMELY FINE — Slightly circulated with some lustre but faint evidence of wear.

VERY FINE — Shows enough wear on high spots to be noticeable. Still retains enough lustre to be desirable.

FINE—Obviously a circulated coin but little wear. Mint lustre gone. All letters in "Liberty" and mottoes clear.

VERY GOOD — Features all clear and bold. Better than good but not quite fine.

GOOD — All of design, every feature and legend must be plain and date clear.

FAIR—Coin has sufficient design and letters to be easily identified. Excessive wear.

Mint Report Good Source

For Data On Steel Cents

On February 9 in this column, John Rodkey, Columbia, Pa., raised the question of the melting of steel cents. He was given a partial answer then, and in the February 23 issue, two answers from readers were printed, supplementing our information. Now we have some definite facts about what has happened, although not why.

The last annual report of the Director of the Mint which covers the fiscal year ending June 30, 1959 (the one for the year ending June 30, 1960, is not expected until April or May, 1961), had a special section entitled "Summary of zinc-coated steel one-cent coins withdrawn from circulation, by fiscal year".

Starting with 1945, in which 690,281 were withdrawn by the Philadelphia Mint, each year and each Mint is covered, through June 30, 1959. The high points were reached in 1950 and 1951, when more than 29 million and 25 million coins, respectively, were withdrawn. The statement is summarized:

"Total coinage and issue (all apparently were issued and none held back) amounted to 1,093,838,670 pieces. Amount outstanding as of June 30, 1959, amounts to 941,578,280 pieces."

So, we know as a fact that in that 14 years, a total of 152,251,390 steel cents of all mints have been destroyed, or more than 10 million a year, starting one year after coining. Whether all these were withdrawn because they were worn or for other reasons, is not stated. Anyone is entitled to draw his own conclusions.

Williams S. Speakman, Neptune, N. J., has written in reference to a question and answer in this column on January 12 on Spanish coins, the question from Marvin Collins, Richmond, Ky.

Speakman encloses a picture which we print herewith, of a coin found on the North Jersey shore after a severe storm, indicating the possibility of an old Spanish wreck somewhere off shore. He says others have been found, in three different sizes.

COMMENT: A good deal has been written about these coins, the denomination of 8 reales being the famous "Pieces of 8" of pirate fame and illustrated on page 4 of the "Red Book".

However, there did not need to be a Spanish wreck in the offing. These coins were minted in Mexico (the two pillars stood for the two worlds, old and new) mostly for Spain. They circulated in the American colonies and the United States, being legal tender here until 1857. The ones found in New Jersey could have been from a wreck, or from buried treasure, or from any one of many sources.

There were minor varieties, but in general they looked like the one in the picture. Mo stands for the Mexico Mint, M, sometimes MF or MM, stands for the assayer's initials, denomination is given as 1R, 2R, 4R or 8R, sometimes together, sometimes separated.

The 2R denomination is the famous "two bits". The one pictured is 1752, the 5 being peculiar to the species. It is a minor variant of Guttag 2647 if a scholarly reference is needed. Some club libraries may have the book. Pradeau has also written a "Numismatic History of Mexico", containing descriptions of these coins.

Dealers advertise them occasionally in the neighborhood of $5 for the 8-reale piece, with lesser ones in proportion.

I have a 1960 cent that has a flaw in the 0 of 1960 (looks like a vertical line through the middle). Would you print this or write me the value of it? Thank you. I enjoy your paper.

Jimmy Vest, Cincinnati, Ohio

ANSWER: We have printed it. Without a more exact description of the flaw, we cannot say much about it, but we guess it is either a die crack or a "blob" of metal. See this column in issue of February 23.

Roland Abate of Hawthorne, N. J., writes: I have been collecting coins for about two years. My best find was a 1916-D dime I found in change. I came across an 1865 two cent piece with a die break on the front.

The break runs from the rim down through United. It starts again in States and runs through that word. Can you give me the value of this?

ANSWER: Die cracks are not too uncommon, and the value of a coin with such breaks would depend somewhat on how obvious they are, whether they can be seen without a magnifier or microscope, and just where they come. See also Fair to Very Fine in this issue.

Jewett gives a value of $2.75 for the 1955 "cracked skull" Lincoln (Continued on Page 18)

OVER 150 BRILLIANT UNCIRCULATED 1950-D JEFFERSON NICKELS!

Dear "Coin World" Readers:

MY WHOLE PURPOSE IN THIS UNIQUE UNDERTAKING WAS TO LIQUIDATE MY COLLECTION, AND IN SO DOING, TO GIVE SOME PEOPLE THE OPPORTUNITY TO OWN A COIN THAT THEY MIGHT NOT OTHERWISE BE ABLE TO BUY. I WILL NOT BE ABLE TO RUN THIS KIND OF A SALE AGAIN, BECAUSE IT WOULD TAKE YEARS FOR ME TO ACCUMULATE A COLLECTION SUCH AS THIS.

I'd like to thank everyone for the wonderful acceptance of my Grab-Bag Sale! This includes not only those who have participated in this Sale, but also the many from whom I have received complimentary letters. Below is a partial list of some of the folks who have received coins from my Grab-Bag Sale. PLEASE don't write to any of these people, unless you include a stamped, self addressed envelope for their convenience.

Since it's impossible to answer the thousands of wonderful letters that I have received and those still coming, I would like to answer here the one question asked the most: "WHAT ARE GRINDERS?" In some sections of the country, they may be called Italian Sandwiches, Hogies, or Submarines, etc. This is my recipe: A foot-long bread roll with a filling of sliced Polish imported Ham, Italian Salami, sliced American cheese, sliced tomatoes, strips of green peppers, shredded Spanish onions, spears of Kosher dill pickles, dash of salt and pepper and topped with a special seasoned pure olive oil. This Grinder sells for 70 cents. SOUND DELICIOUS??? In five years I have sold well over 100,000 of them.

I would like to publish this one letter in part, even though I have received thousands of others just as nice:

"Dear Stan:

My lot number was xxxx and it was a 1901 V Nickel. I am satisfied. I took a chance knowing full well that the odds were terrific against my getting a $3 Gold piece, but I felt that $1 for a chance on one was worth it and then there was the possibility that I might get a coin worth more than the $1.00. I know you will get letters from dissatisfied chance takers. I thought you might like to know that one of your customers was satisfied. To prove this statement I am returning the coin to you absolutely free, and hope that you will be able to send it to some other collector who might not otherwise be able to be in on the Year's Greatest Sale, by Stan the Pizza Man! Here's wishing you the best of wishes for the year. Very truly yours, Charles W. McLemore, A.N.A. 22871, 404 Seventh Ave. SW, Decatur, Alabama."

Thanks again,

Schulman Reports

Dutch Coin List Starts With Historic Background

By Hans M. F. Schulman

Coin World readers certainly study their newspapers, I can tell you that in all sincerity because I receive quite a mail. Some of the letters are very complimentary and others show me where I could have been wrong or ask me to explain myself clearer. One of the readers wanted to know how in one recent article I suggested collectors who care to sell not to sell in Europe but in their own United States and in another article I mentioned that prices in Europe are higher. This may sound a bit contradictory but the one article dealt with the "seller" and as you all know: a "seller" is not always treated the same way as a buyer. In the other article I was discussing things from the standpoint of a buyer.

Now let's explain this in more detailed facts. If you are "selling" abroad you may tumble on a sale which is set up for dealers who hope to buy cheap and who have kept collectors out of the competition and your item will be sold cheap in order to come up in another sale and to be sold high to a foreign "buyer".

Here you have an example of what I meant.

Now don't get me wrong. There are many honest and fine houses all over the world, but if you do not know them yourself and none of your friends know them, stay close to home. In the USA auctions are legitimate, without tricks and fair to buyer and seller. I hope I have answered Mr. G's request.

Another Coin World reader asked me how it happens that the wives of numismatists and coin collectors are all either charming, chic or pretty.....and as he asks me, "Aren't there any wives who are not that?" Well, my dear friend, there must be, but we do not know them.

We saw Professor Davenport's new book on European talers from 1700-1800.....Do I have to tell you that this again is one of those books which make coin-collecting so interesting and so educating.

This book which most likely does not contain one error is the work of an American numismatist esteemed the world over and used by scholars, dealers and collectors alike. We should be proud that our numismatic world supplies the world with the most important books. All Davenport's books and all Friedberg publications can be found all over the world.

I am proud to know John Davenport as a friend and I hope that many more books will follow in these series of crowns of the world. The book is in the standard handy format with every type illustrated and a valuation sheet attached. Let me guide the collector who uses valuations in books as a price to buy.

This is generally not always possible. Because of the supply and demand prices vary continuously and certain coins may sell for more than Prof. Davenport's valuations.

That is not important and nobody can publish a book with valuations which stay up to date all the time. Use valuations as a rarity guide. You can see that a coin of $10 value is a lot more common than a coin of $35 value and if you compare valuations, you will be able to know if the price you are paying is too high, correct or a bargain. And as a rarity guide Prof. Davenport's valuations are excellent.

Coins of Colonial America: In earlier lines I mentioned that Dutch coins current during the Dutch occupation of New York (all the way up to Albany) are real colonial coins of the United States and should be listed in the Standard catalogues.

In 1609 the newly established Dutch trading post, because it was not much more than that, had a contract with the United East Indian Company for its supply of money but in 1621 the United West Indian Company took over the governing rights which did not suit the Dutch who complained to Holland and wanted colonial rule or even home rule.

From 1621-1664 a great array of Dutch coins were traded in these areas and a detailed list will be published next week.

In 1667 with the Peace of Breda the Dutch lost the colonies to the English who installed York and New Amsterdam became New York. However, the Dutch regained the territory in 1673 and since the conquerors were all from the Province of Zealand and not from the Prov. of Holland they renamed the town, New Orange.

cent in uncirculated; Kolman values them at 25 cents without reference to condition. Die-cracked coins are usually of value only to a specialist in errors, unless the cracks are spectacular. You might try the nearest coin club which is the Cincinnati Numismatic Association, or the Society of Collectors of Numismatic Errors.

Congratulations on your 1916-D find. Most people never have that much luck.

Last week in checking over $100 in dimes, nickels, and cents, I found the following: two 1950-D, three 1939-D, two 1938-S and several 1955 and 1951-S Jeffersons.

One 1921-D Mercury in VG and one 1931 in EF. I also found one 1912-D, 1913-S, 1915-S and 1931-D Lincoln cents, plus several other hard ones. There are some good "key" coins in circulation, but you have to look to find them. Finding a good coin is like finding a pearl in an oyster.

Charles O. Bohner, Washington, Pa.

COMMENT: Keep looking! Probably the hardest to find of those you mention are the 1950-D Jefferson and the 1915-S cent. There are probably more uncirculated 1950-D nickels available today than there are circulated. They were not minted until late in the year, and people waited for them and put away all the uncirculated rolls they could. Most of them never got into circulation at all.

If they were priced today in relation to scarcity, a lot of people would be fool enough to rub dirt on their BU coins and sell them as EF or AU, and that would be criminal. A BU coin should always be more desirable than a circulated one, assuming both are authentic.

Harry English, Falls Church, Va., has written to ask if there isn't a story in the 1944 counterfeit nickels without mint mark. He wants to know why anyone would bother with nickels.

ANSWER: See this column for February 9. One factor is that the counterfeiter made so many before he was caught that he probably made a profit. You made a good point in your letter, that the counterfeit is not wartime silver, but about like the regular composition, which is a good way to spot them.

Background of Rarities Discounted

Bowers Says Listings Of 1866 Coins In Error

By Q. David Bowers

We have received our copy of the Edwin M. Hydeman Collection of United States Coins, catalogued and to be sold by colleague A. Kosoff. This catalogue is remarkable for the number of rarities offered between its two covers. In addition to an 1804 dollar, 1876-CC 20-cent piece, 1894-S dime and 1913 Liberty nickel, the 1866 half and quarter dollar without the motto, In God We Trust, are listed.

According to present published information the 1866 quarter and half dollar without motto are each unique. There are but two specimens known of their companion piece, the 1866 dollar without motto. Mr. Kosoff states that all four pieces were originally acquired by the late F. C. C. Boyd from the collection of William H. Woodin.

Interestingly enough, Woodin states in his 1913 book, "United States Pattern, Trial and Experimental Pieces," that 35 to 50 pieces each are known of the three denominations of the 1866 mottoless coins. Was this information concerning rarity erroneous? Evidently, as no other specimens have turned up and as these pieces are not listed in any of the early auction catalogs we have examined.

It would seem to us that these 1866 coins are not pattern, trial or experimental pieces and should not be listed as such. Unfortunately, Dr. Judd lists them in his new pattern reference and even refers to them as "transitional," something they are certainly not. Rather, these 1866 pieces belong to that distinctive group of rarities struck at the Mint after a design was discontinued for regular coinage. Such rarities include the 1804 dollar, the 1884 and 1885 trade dollars, the 1868 large cent and the 1913 Liberty nickel.

When the 1866 dollar without motto sold for $13,000 in Stack's auction of the Fairbanks Collection many people were surprised. Actually, this price was quite reasonable when compared to the $28,000 the 1804 dollar sold for. The only thing the 1804 has that the 1866 does not is publicity. We will await with interest the results of the Hydeman sale.

An overdate listed in M. L. Beistle's "Register of Half Dollar Die Varieties", but not listed in any of the popular references, is the 1846/5-O half dollar. This coin has no drapery at the elbow of Liberty, a characteristic which should make it easy to attribute. We have been able to locate one. Should one of our readers possess a specimen we would be glad to hear of it.

Regency Canadian List Released

Collectors of Canadian and foreign coins have a new source of supply and evaluation of their collections, with the release of the 1961 price list of the Regency Coin and Stamp Company, Ltd., of Winnipeg, Manitoba, headed by Somer James.

This 40-page price list includes Canada, Newfoundland, United States and foreign coins, gold and paper money, and is probably the most comprehensive list put out by any Canadian dealer, the Regency company claims.

One of its unusual aspects is that it prices many Canadian and foreign coins in quantity lots for dealers or investors, some foreign coins being offered in groups per 100 or per 1,000.

The catalogue is also useful for trading purposes, as it lists the prices which Regency will pay for many items, in cash or trade.

This price list, and circulars on packets of foreign coins, are available free of charge by writing Regency Coin and Stamp Co., Ltd., 157 Rupert Avenue, Winnipeg 2, Manitoba, Canada.

Another overdate to watch for is the 1918/7-D dime. We have seen two worn specimens which appear to be likely candidates for an overdate. A sharp Extremely Fine or better specimen is needed to make this discovery certain.

Tip to investors: A good coin to watch is the 1927-D quarter in Uncirculated condition. No, we don't own any ourselves, but we have noticed a great amount of interest in this coin recently. The overdate, 1916, 1927-D and 1927-S are the only Liberty standing quarters with a mintage of fewer than one million pieces.

In an article entitled "The A.N. A. and Uncle Sam" friends Charles M. Wormser and John J. Ford Jr. attack the seemingly irrational policy of the Treasury Department with respect to the seizure of mint error cents struck in silver. After mentioning other uncertainties concerning the legal status of holding gold certificates, gold assay bars, double denomination notes, etc., the proposal is made that a committee be established to formulate proposals concerning what can and what cannot be legally held.

It is not fair that collectors be subject to the present inconsistent and illogical treasury policies.

As an example of the extremes of these policies, about 1918 the Treasury department decreed that the holding of Confederate paper money and broken bank notes was illegal, and proceeded to impound several prominent collections of these notes.

Whetstone New Leader

Sherman G. Whetstone was elected president of the Asheville, N. C., Coin Club at the group's annual dinner meeting recently.

Other officers chosen were Earl T. Freeman, vice president, and Alton R. Hoyle, secretary-treasurer.

At the dinner meeting, president emeritus Gustav Lichtenfels gave a talk memorializing past president Walter B. Carpenter who died a few weeks ago.

Retiring president James A. Bileath reported that the club has gained 20 members during the year, ending with 75. William E. Black was awarded the membership prize for enrolling the greatest number of new members in 1960. The prize, a Civil War fractional currency note, was donated by Lichtenfels.

Pearson Head Of Tri-State

Harold D. Pearson, Epsom, N. H., was elected president of the Tri-State Collectors' Exhibition, Inc., at its annual meeting February, held in the Masonic Temple at Concord, N. H. Other officers include:

John Connell, Henniker, N. H., vice president; Marguerite Finch, Henniker, secretary; Waldo Roundy, Concord, treasurer; and Paul Moore, Pittsfield, and William Prince, Raymond, directors.

Dates for the 1961 exhibition were set as October 28 and 29, in the Masonic Hall at Concord. Auction, bourse, and exhibits of stamps, coins, buttons, dolls and other items are included in this annual event which offers a governor's trophy as the top award. Pearson will serve as general chairman of the show.

Mint Sells Medal Series

A complete list of bronze medals for sale by the United States Mint in Philadelphia, together with the price and name of the designer, will be presented as a Coin World reader service during the next few weeks.

This list, current as of July 1, 1960, was supplied by Mrs. Rae V. Biester, superintendent of the Philadelphia Mint.

Seven categories are included in the list of medals available. These are presidential, secretary of the treasury, director of the Mint, Washington, army, navy and miscellaneous medals.

Presidential, treasury and Mint director medals are all priced at $3; the others vary in cost.

Remittance in the form of U.S. money order, certified personal check, express or bank money order or bank cashier's checks are to be mailed to: Mrs. Rae V. Biester, superintendent, United States Mint, Philadelphia, 30, Pennsylvania.

Medals are sold with the understanding that they are not to be resold at a profit. The size of medals is expressed by numbers, each of which indicates the sixteenth part of an inch; these sizes may vary a fraction of an inch over or under, according to Mint officials.

Price List Printed By Pueblo Firm

The 1961 Price List of Rare Coins of the U. S. has been issued by the Overton Coin Company of Pueblo, Colo., in a pocket-size 28-page booklet with stiff cover.

Listed are all the denominations and series commonly collected, most of them priced in five conditions from Good or Very Good to B.U. and some in Proof. Early series and gold are listed by types within date periods.

Al Overton, owner and manager, stresses four points in his business policy: Prompt service; honest grading; reasonable prices and guaranteed satisfaction.

The booklet also lists numismatic supplies, and buying prices for key coins at 85 per cent of the selling price. It may be obtained by addressing The Overton Coin Co., Colorado Bldg., Pueblo, Colo.

First copy of the price list is free; future issues are sent to those who try to send at least one order for coins or supplies during the year.

Texas Store Adds Coins

Foley's Department store in Houston, Texas, has opened a new coin and stamp center, on the eighth floor, next to the Book Shop.

Stock includes both United States and foreign coins, ancient and modern, plus numismatic literature and accessories. A selection of coin jewelry is an added feature.

An opening day luncheon had as special guests the Houston postmaster; W. J. Bingham, president of the Houston Coin Club; B. J. Cornelisse, regional manager of the Royal Dutch Airlines; Vernon Moore, representing the Boy Scouts, and members of the press.

On exhibit was a $22,000 collection of rare gold coins which is part of the store's stock.

Greeks Receive New 20 Drachmas

The Bank of Greece has started circulation of a new 20 drachma silver coin ordered by the Greek government from the Royal Mint in London.

On one side it reproduces the figure of King Paul of the Hellenes, and on the reverse is the reproduction of a 2,400-year-old copper engraving representing allegorically the Moon Goddess, emerging from the sea.

Key Figures At Installation

Outgoing president Charles Nissen presents the gavel to the new president, Henry Homola, at recent installation ceremonies of the Oceanic-

Carlsbad, Calif., Coin Club. Members of the club enjoyed dinner at Acapulco Gardens in connection with the installing of 1961 officers.

"Have you met my silent partner in the coin business?"

Jewish Coin Southern Find

A coin thought to be more than 1800 years old has turned up in Beaufort, S. C., and its owner, William L. Wallace, has sent pictures of it to the Jewish Theological Seminary museum in New York for identification.

Tentatively, it is thought to be a type minted in the 132-135 A.D. period of Rome's occupation of the Holy Land. The script is definitely ancient Hebrew, but nobody in Beaufort could translate it. Identification of the script as made by Jewish Navy chaplain Lt. H. M. Tallebaum of Parris Island but he could read only one word, "Israel".

Wallace does not know where he obtained the coin. It was in an assortment picked up over a period of some 15 years and kept in a leather pouch.

On one side, the coin bears what seems to be a representation of a temple entrance, and on the other, a sheaf of grain.

Missouri Coin Club Elects New Officers

Virgil Horner has been elected president of the Nevada, Mo., Coin and Stamp Club, at a meeting held recently in the City Hall meeting room. Other officers chosen include:

Coins travel on a three-inch wide endless belt past a high grade 3 1/2-inch magnifying glass. Light is furnished by a high powered light fixture.

Today as coins are becoming more scarce this machine is a must for every coin sorter. It is ruggedly built and will last for years.

This machine comes all ready to go except the hopper has to be attached. Four screws are furnished. It uses a standard light bulb (not furnished).

Auctions Part Of Club Program

Celebrating its first birthday in February, the Minot, N. D., Coin Club elected 1961 officers at a recent meeting. They include:

Jerry Sark, president; Jerry Schultz, vice president; Willard Nelson, secretary, and Larry Anderson, treasurer.

The club meets twice monthly in the Veteran's room of the municipal auditorium. The first meeting of each month features an auction. The second meeting is devoted to trading.

A grading committee inspects the coins before the auction to determine their condition and estimate value. It then types up a list of the lots.

Grant Brown, laboratory officer of the John Moses Air Force Hospital, was the principal organizer of the Minot club. It ended its first year with 59 members, with more wanted, according to Brown.

Coin Test

1—Why was the design of the silver 3-cent coin changed in 1854?

2—What coins were designed by A. A. Weinman?

3—What coin, other than gold, had the smallest mintage since 1900?

4—Which Jefferson five cent pieces are not nickels?

5—Why are many early mint reports unreliable? (Answers elsewhere in this issue)

Auctioning coins to other members of the Minot, N. D., Coin Club is Robert Johnson. The club's new president, Jerry Sark, is inset, lower left.

Fair To Very Fine Individual Punches Cause Of Many Pre-1909 'Errors'

By James G. Johnson

This week I am writing more or less a continuation of last week's column because of several letters that have come in, mostly on "overdates", and on the two-cent piece. In my last paragraph last week, I referred to Walter Breen's article on recut dates and overdates, in the February, 1955, Numismatic Scrapbook Magazine. He explains the difference between the two kinds of date, and then lists the known overdates.

Most are in early series since 1909, dates were not on the hub but were placed on the working dies by individual punches. This could and did lead to a good many different kinds of "errors", for want of a better name.

Overdates since 1909 have come from somebody getting the hubs mixed up and using the wrong one first, then correcting the mistake since from about that time on, the hub has carried the date.

Breen listed five overdates in the half cent and 21 in the large cent. In the small cent, he lists only the 1869 over 3 but says it could be over a 6 as the basic loop is not sharp enough to show definitely which. He also says it is very rare, with about a dozen located at the time of writing.

He also lists one in the two-cent series, also an 1869 over 8, and calls it about as rare as the small cent one. He does not describe it as he does the other, but says it is not mentioned by Freeman, of whom I shall say more later on.

Most of the remainder of Breen's listings are also listed in the Red Book. In many cases, he describes what the overdate looks like, to help identify them.

JACKSON, MISSISSIPPI

Back in the January 12 issue of Coin World, I mentioned that two cent overdate. In connection with that column, Radford Stearns, South Bend, Ind., wrote in, as follows:

"Most of us know about the cent (overdate) but your mention of the two cent is the first I have heard about. I was able to pick up a five cent nickel of this variety. I'd like to know why the cent is listed as a recognized variety when the others are not. Also in what other denomination does this variety exist?"

"Speaking of overdates, I have seen what appears to be a 61 over 59 silver three cent coin. Could this be so, or is it just a counterfeit?"

I cannot tell Mr. Stearns why some varieties are "recognized" when others are not, except to explain it this way. Assuming by "recognized", he means listed in a catalogue for the general run of coin collectors, then the catalogues are published by private publishing firms or individuals, and they put in them what they please to put in them.

What they omit are frequently published in books or catalogues aimed at the specialist, such as Sheldon's and Newcomb's books on the large cent, Beistle on the half dollar, and so on. Most collectors are interested only in obtaining each date and mint mark of a series, and either don't know or don't care about the varieties. Some of these varieties are so microscopic that only a specialist wants them, anyhow, or would be able to know one when he saw it.

Where to draw the line between "major" varieties and "minor" varieties is sometimes strictly a matter of opinion, and one man's is as good as another. I would say offhand that a major variety is one that can be identified without a magnifier, and that minor varieties are ones that can be identified only upon extremely close examination.

I just put that out as a thought, and hope that somebody will argue with me about it, or agree with me, either one. I have seen no definitions, and numismatics needs such a definition, badly.

Getting back to Mr. Stearns' letter, Breen did not list the nickel or silver three cent overdate, possibly because they had not been reported or else because

People-To-People Plan Continues Its Progress

India's numismatists are most eager to correspond with American collectors under the auspices of the People-to-People numismatic exchange program, according to George S. Vanderwende, Dunn Loring, Va., vice chairman of the American Numismatic Association project.

Vanderwende, who administers the program, said he received 30 requests from India for correspondents from the United States. There were 26 from Germany, 18 from Italy, 13 from Iran and 10 from Finland.

American requested correspondents from England in the highest number, 51, with world-wide designation, 41.

Other American requests were Germany, 36; Canada, 28; France, 30; Mexico, 16; Sweden, Israel, Italy, 14; Great Britain, 13; Spain, Australia, 11.

There were nine prospective correspondents from America to Switzerland; eight for Greece and Japan; seven for South Africa and the Netherlands; six for China, Ireland, Philippines, Russia, Scotland and South America.

Five requests were for India, Poland, Austria; four for Denmark, Egypt, Europe, Turkey, West Indies, Norway, Scandinavia.

Countries with two requests included Africa, British Empire, Czechoslovakia, Cyprus, Ethiopia, Hungary, New Zealand, Spanish-speaking and Thailand. There were three requests for Latin American correspondents.

Single listings for correspondents included Afghanistan, Algeria, Argentina, Belgium, Congo, Brazil, British Colonies, Ceylon, Columbia, Danzig, Far East, Finland, Formosa, Guatemala, Haiti, Hong Kong, Wales, Yemen, Iceland, Indonesia, Iraq, Korea, Lebanon, Near East, Nepal, Newfoundland, Nicaragua, Persia, Peru, Rhodesia, Roumania, Salvador, Serbia and Syria.

Overseas collectors in addition to the large number listed earlier who request American contacts are from Australia, Belgium, Brazil, Canada, Ceylon, Chile, China, Columbia, Cuba, Czechoslovakia, Denmark, El Salvador, England, France.

Greece, Guadeloupe, Hungary, Indonesia, Israel, Jordan, Lebanon, Malaya, Mexico, Netherlands, Nicaragua, Nigeria, West Pakistan, Panama, Peru, Philippines, Saudi Arabia, Scotland, Spain, Sweden, Uruguay, Venezuela, Vietnam, Trinidad.

"The matching of requests is, at times, very difficult," Vanderwende commented, "and some correspondents may not receive the name of an overseas friend in the country or age group and possibly not in the language area requested."

He pointed out there were not sufficient incoming names to meet requirements. Many American requests, he said, were from persons in the 36-50 and over 50 age groups. Overseas friends in a majority of instances are under 21, Vanderwende disclosed.

Coin World has been the major source of names for the People-to-People Program, the administering chairman said as he thanked Coin World for its cooperation.

Readers desiring overseas correspondents may write to George S. Vanderwende, Dunn Loring Va., for application blanks.

William Cullen, property underwriter expert for Aetna Casualty, will talk on "Ideas for the Protection of your Collections" to members of the Washington, D. C., Numismatic Society at their next meeting, set for Monday, March 6, in the Natural History building of the Smithsonian Institution.

In addition to the speaking program, other plans have been made to draw a large attendance. In February, 151 members and guests attended the meeting, and nine new membership applications were received. It is hoped that the March session will exceed this.

In addition to special awards, the auction will contain some choice items, including a 1909-S VDB cent, 1914-D cent, $3 gold piece and an 1885 nickel.

Meadville Picks Officers

What started recently as the Crawford County, Pa., Coin Club is now the Meadville Coin Club, and Verne Willey, Meadville, has been elected its first president. Other first year officers include: Gerald Young, vice president; Tim Johnston, secretary-treasurer; and board of governors, Ralph Copeland, Frank R. Boswell, Glenn Carpenter, O. E. Hanson and E. P. Camp.

The club plans to affiliate with the American Numismatic Association. Membership is open to any interested collector. Meetings during the winter are planned for the first and third Mondays of each month.

Interested collectors are invited to contact president Willey at 3-4621 or Johnston at 3-6461. Junior members are invited, also.

Franklin Heads El Reno Coin Club

New officers of the El Reno, Okla., Coin Club have been announced, headed by Glen Franklin as president, succeeding Walter Couse. Others include:

Bill Sneed, vice president; Mack McCabe, historian and librarian, and Mrs. F. W. Hollingsworth, secretary-treasurer.

Piqua Club Holds Auction

Featuring a 60-lot auction at which half the items sold at or higher than the estimates, the Piqua, Ohio, Coin Club held its February meeting recently, at the Piqua National Bank building, with more than 50 members and visitors attending.

Highest valued lot in the auction was a set of Jefferson nickels in VF, which sold at the estimated price of $8.50. A two-piece set of 1938-D and S Jeffersons in VF, estimated at $1, went for $1.80, while a 1915-S Lincoln in VG raised $2 on an estimate of 90 cents.

Silver dollars sold well, as did Indian cents and S-Mint Lincolns. Much of the material was fairly common dates of small denominations, but in Fine or better condition.

The application for membership of James R. McElroy of Piqua was accepted at the meeting, with other applications being received and held over for a vote at the next session.

Triple Cities Club Will View Slides

Members of the Triple Cities Coin Club of Johnson City, N. Y., are scheduled to see the American Numismatic Association slides on fractional and postal currency at their next meeting, March 7. Narrator for the showing is slated to be Q. David Bowers of Binghamton.

Canadian Catalog May Be Ordered

The International Coin Company and Beaver Stamp Company of Toronto, Ontario, have released their joint 1961 catalog of numismatic and philatelic supplies.

Comprising 54 pages, the booklet lists most numismatic accessories for both dealer and collectors, the firm doing a wholesale business as well as retail. It is a distributor for such lines as Whitman, Hollander, Meghrig, Leto-craft and the like.

The catalog may be obtained by sending 35 cents to International Coin Co., 227 Victoria St., Toronto, Ontario, Canada.

"Boy! They gave me a lousy little crammed up booth at the coin show . . . and to top it all off everyone tried to crowd in to make a telephone call!"

Denver Club Moves Home

The Denver, Colo., Coin Club held its February meeting in its new home, the Dome Room of the Capitol Federal Savings building, and devoted much of the program to a discussion of the new quarters.

Announcements included that the club will serve coffee and donuts at future meetings, and that 100 proof sets have been ordered for sale to members at 25 cents over the Mint price.

Members voted to have notices placed in the local newspapers and in the coin shops in the area regarding the date and time of the next meeting, and it was reported that 12 new members had joined the club since January 1.

The February session was the 279th stated meeting of the Denver Coin Club.

Fair-Fine . . .

they do not exist but are from defective dies which make them look like overdates.

Breen did admit that new discoveries are continually being made. Anything is possible, and it could be that in 1869 what was true in one denomination might be true in all others of that year, and for the same reasons, since presumably the same people did the job.

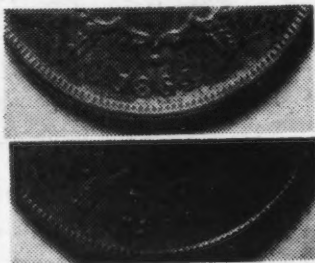

At any rate, I have what I think is an 1869 over 8 two cent coin. It has a definite closure to the 9, similar to that on the large cent with "9" overdates and, I presume, the small cent of 1869. It also has a just as definite tail at the bottom of the 6 and a cracked die below the 9. I would like to hear from readers on this coin.

Getting away from overdates, but still on the subject of two-cent coins, Roland Abate of Hawthorne, N. J., wrote about one, in this week's "Clearinghouse", and Joseph K. Massaro, Clifton, N. J., sent in a picture of one that he has which he finds is "different".

Massaro's is an 1864, and Abate's an 1865. So here I go back to the Freeman mentioned by Breen.

S. W. Freeman of Newport, Ark., is a specialist on the two cent coin. He made the same kind of study of this series that Newcomb did for the large cents of 1816-1857, and it was published in the Numismatist over several years from 1954 to 1958.

He describes no less than 18 die varieties of the 1864 large cent to coin, many of which are distinguished mainly by the position of the ball above the date in relations to various digits in the date, or the distance between the ball and the date. That is what Massaro wrote about and what the picture emphasizes.

Abate wrote about die cracks, and these are also mentioned by Freeman. He lists also 20 varieties of the 1865, and specifically mentions identifying die cracks, although these do not make the variety but help to distinguish them.

Most of these varieties of the series, which total 102 for the 10 years it lasted, are what I would call "minor" and of interest only to a collector who wanted to specialize. Some of them are, of course, quite rare.

I also wrote last week about "broken nose" dimes. Lloyd C. Beach, Richland, Wash., comes now saying he has some 1958-D nickels with the bridge of the nose missing. Although this is the first I have heard of them, I am not surprised. Filled dies can happen in any denomination, and probably the smaller the die, the often-er. Such things can also come from "light" strikes. Let's hear from more of you. So long until next week.

Dealer Issues New Price List

R. Ladecky, Chicago, Ill., dealer, has issued a mimeographed price list of recent Lincoln cent errors and varieties, mostly 1960 Philadelphia and Denver, with a few earlier and 1961.

The coins run a wide range, from die cracks to filled or re-engraved digits, and shifted letters.

A list may be obtained free of charge by writing R. Ladecky, 2616 South Tripp Avenue, Chicago 23, Ill.

380. 1861 Confederate Half Dollar. The reverse of which was struck from the original Confederate Die. Only about 300 Specimens struck. They were struck over a regular issue of the U.S. Half Dollar of 1861 so that the obverse is usually rather flat. This has the boldest obverse of any of the Half Dollars I have ever seen. The reverse of Confederate die is unusually bold. Rare and historically interesting. Uncirculated, this one should bring a record price of 500.00

This is the first such set to be offered at a Public Auction in a long time! With the increasing demand of collectors and investors to own such a set, here is a once in a lifetime opportunity for some fortunate bidder to own a complete set. There could not be more than 8 or 10 such sets in existence today. If a collector had $60,000 to put this set together today piece by piece it could not be done. We are not being over enthusiastic when we say this set should bring $45,000.00
We will take bids on this set as a whole or singly by years. And it will go to the highest total bid.

Catalog, Price List To Be Sold

Illustrated Catalog and Price List No. 3 of U.S. and foreign coins, paper money and medals, has been issued by Fred L. Buza, Stevens Points, Wisc., at a cost of 25 cents.

This list contains some items of almost every series and denomination, in conditions from fair to "nice", but does not list so-called "key" coins.

Pocket-size, with stiff cover, this booklet prices most coins in only one or two conditions, those in which the average collector is presumably interested. It also includes a short section on U. S. gold, by dates, and U.S. paper money by Friedberg numbers.

Also listed are broken bank notes, allied military currency, and foreign coins by country rather than denomination, and some foreign paper money.

Buza's catalogue may be obtained by writing him at Route 1, Box 176, Stevens Point, and enclosing 25 cents. Extra copies are available at 15 cents.

Coin Week Head Named For Havre Club

Don Connor has been appointed chairman of the National Coin Week committee of the Havre, Mont., Coin Club, with Bea Clark responsible for inviting the joint participation of the Medicine Hat, Alberta, club.

Other recent appointments include Myrtle Daniel as cards and flowers chairman, and Judy Daniel, scrapbook chairman.

West Coast Club To Charter Buses

To promote additional interest in numismatics locally, and to acquaint the membership with collecting on a national scale, the Santa Ana, Calif., Coin Club has underwritten the cost of two chartered buses to take paid-up members to the March 4 convention of the Numismatic Association of Southern California at Los Angeles.

The Santa Ana club is engaged in a membership drive, with the present members divided into two divisions. Prizes will be awarded the winning division at the end of the campaign. Due in part to the drive, attendance at the last meeting totalled 82.

Record Number Join DeKalb Club

The DeKalb Coin Club of Decatur, Ga., reports that 76 people attended its first regular meeting in February, and 63 become paid-up charter members.

Club president Kenneth A. Frith believes this to be a record membership for the first regular meeting of any club, and would like to hear from clubs that disagree. He may be reached at 3523 Tulip Drive, Decatur, Ga.

Produce Buyers Rebel At New African Coinage

The decimal system stirred up a ruckus last week at the Cape Town, South Africa, produce market, according to the Associated Press when colored buyers refused to accept lots they had bid in.

They contended they were not told the units were counted in 10's rather than dozens as in the past. The market directorate is pondering a decision.

The Union of South Africa switched from pounds, shillings and pence to the decimal system of currency on February 14. But the process of doing so was and is not nearly as simple as the statement that it happened, according to reports.

For some months South Africa will be operating under a dual coinage system, in fact if not in law. In some parts, "natives" may never accept the new coinage.

According to J. P. Roux, director of the South African Mint, it will take at least 25 years for the current South African silver coins to disappear. And there are in circulation now 125 million pennies and 60 million half-pennies.

Cost of the changeover is considerable, and may well run over the nine million pounds sterling which was the official advance estimate. The full cost may not be measurable in cash according to Dr. B. Wiehahn, government advisor.

For the most difficult task facing the nationalist government is to persuade the millions of semi-educated non-whites that they are not being defrauded when they put a one-shilling piece on the shop counter and, instead of receiving 12 pennies in exchange, are given 10 of the new cents.

Opposition members of Parliament warned the Government against the risks when the decimal coinage bill was debated and the government engaged a firm of advertising consultants to conduct the publicity campaign.

Africans have already been buying unusually large quantities of goods and it is reported from many parts of the Transvaal that rumors are spreading among tribesmen that their money will lose all its value when the change is made.

The Africans are hostile to the government and suspicious of everything it does.

Storekeepers have been trying to accustom people to the new table of coins.

Articles in the shops are ticketed in pounds, shillings and pence and also in rands and cents.

Official posters give a table of equivalents.

Publicity costing 30,000 pounds was undertaken in the last few months to ensure that all parts of the population were familiar with the new coinage system on the day of the change-over.

Dr. Wiehahn said that mining companies, industrial firms, commercial banks and shops were asked to co-operate in this campaign.

Shortly before D-day pamphlets were sent to every address in the Union of South Africa, while the radio and the country's 6000 schools also assisted in the campaign.

The new coinage units are the rand and the cent. The name rand has been chosen because it is a word both English-speaking and Afrikaans-speaking South Africans know well.

It means ridge, and occurs, for example, in Witwatersrand (Ridge of the White Waters).

The rand is the strip of country centered on Johannesburg and the fabulously rich gold and uranium mines of the Transvaal.

The economic problems themselves are not yet solved.

On the three days preceding February 14, the Reserve Bank, all commercial banks and most businesses were closed to enable staffs to manage the changeover as smoothly as possible.

Gettysburg Club Hears Sutlers Talk

Members of the Gettysburg, Pa., Numismatic Society heard E. Ward Russell of Silver Springs, Md., talk on "Sutlers and their Tokens", at their February meeting held in the Adams County Courthouse in Gettysburg.

Russell made reference to articles written by James Curto and others on his subject, and emphasized that this phase of numismatics has been much neglected. He expected that it would become more popular as the Civil war centennial gets well under way.

The Gettysburg club meets on the second Tuesday of each month, at 8 p.m., at the Courthouse, and visitors are welcome.

New Club Sales Rules Are Proposed

Members of the Waterloo, Ontario, Canada, Coin Society considered at their January meeting a proposed addition to their by-laws, namely:

"That one dealer member designated by the members may be permitted to set up a display table for the sale of numismatic supplies only, at regular meetings.

"The designated member would pay the club a percentage of his sales in return for the privilege. This privilege may be revoked at any time, and the club would then handle the supplies until a new member was designated."

Seven new members were accepted by the club at the meeting, and a new gavel was donated by one of them, Ed Podam. In attendance were 58 members and guests.

Library Displays Coin Collection

The Memorial Library of Lodi, N. J., has been exhibiting a small part of the rare coin collection of William T. Anton, Jr., local realtor and builder.

Among the items are early Washington coins, large size currency, and a collection of small size national currency of the local banks of Lodi, Rutherford, Garfield, Passaic and Hackensack.

Captain Turns Designer

Wayne Beasley, a captain in the Marshalltown, Iowa, police department, displays his winning design for a medal and official emblem of the Central Iowa Coin Club. The medal depicts Iowa's leading agricultural products and the official state seal. It will be circulated at the club's annual show and convention April 8-9 in Marshalltown, and at next fall's Iowa Numismatic Association convention, also in Marshalltown. Membership in the Central Iowa Club has reached 109, according to Jack Mummey, publicity chairman. The club is busy with National Coin Week plans, too, in addition to the show. Alan Eddy, Rhodes, is the club's new secretary.

June 17-18 Dates For Mattoon Exhibit

The Mattoon, Ill., Coin Club will sponsor its second annual public Coin Exhibit, Bourse and Auction on June 17 and 18, at the Burgess-Osborne auditorium, 17th and Wabash in Mattoon, according to an announcement from the club. Information regarding exhibits or bourse space should be requested from the club secretary, Mrs. Joe Homann, R. R. 4, Mattoon.

Old Capital Club

Plans For Coin Week

Plans for National Coin Week being made by the Old Capital Coin Club of Iowa City include the donation of numismatic books to the city library, and arranging talks on U. S. coins by club members.

On the program at the last meeting of the group was the showing of two films, one dealing with the U. S. Mint, and the other with the history of money.

Club Changes Name To Holly

Members of the Double "E" Coin Club of Holly, Mich., have voted to change the name of the group to the Holly Coin Club, to be in line with common practice and better identify the club's location.

New 1961 officers have been elected, including Pete Hartley, Fenton, president; Clarence Cue, Pontiac, vice president, and Harold Chaney, Holly, secretary-treasurer. Former officers were Mr. and Mrs. Emerson Beebe of Holly and H. E. Hotchkiss of Pontiac.

The club meets on the second and fourth Wednesday of each month, in the basement of the Holly Hotel.

ATTENTION DEALERS!

Arkansas Club Growth Rapid

From 12 charter members to 66 on the roster in two years, is the record of the Texarkana, Ark., Coin Club which celebrated its second anniversary in January. The goal of 100 has been set for 1961. During the two years, visitors from five states and many cities have met with the club, which has acquired an outstanding collection of coins and paper money, according to its president, Pat Allen.

Other officers include Andrew Platz, vice president; Elmer Hatch, secretary-treasurer, and Desmond Higginbotham, Robert Young and Jack Davis, board of governors.

The club meets on the third Monday of each month at 7 p.m., at the Collins Memorial building.

German Medals Club Program

The 100th meeting of the Ottawa, Ontario, Coin Club was scheduled to be held on Monday, February 20, with Lt. Col. H. S. Johnson slated to talk on Germany's War Medals.

Also on the program was to be a report from the committee on National Coin Week, comprised of R. B. Armstrong, Peter Degraff and Knapp, concerning the club's participation.

It had been reported that National Coin Week has been neglected in Ottawa in the past, and suggested that it gave the club an opportunity to gain many new members by display of collections and taking advantage of the publicity which accompanies National Coin Week in other parts of the country.

Leverett Speaker

E. J. Leverett Jr., a Lawton, Okla., coin dealer, was scheduled to be the main speaker at a recent meeting in February of the Ardmore, Okla., Coin Club, slated to be held in the Chamber of Commerce building.

Consul Converted

The field of numismatics has gained a convert from fairly high ranks, according to a report from Israel.

Howard Paul Backus, recently appointed American consul in Haifa, Israel, found some old coins on the Israeli coast. As a result, he is now a coin collector.

Raw Material

Some coin collectors, through special arrangements, get in on the $127,000,000-a-year parking meter business. This figure was just released by the American Municipal Association.

Two out of every three charge a nickel an hour; 14 out of a hundred charge a dime.

4-H Clubs Sell Kansas Medals

Centennial medals of Kansas are being sold by 4-H clubs in Cherokee County, according to reports. They have the Centennial seal on one side, with the inscription "Official Centennial Coin of Kansas, Land of Friendly and Neighborly People".

The dates of 1861 and 1961 and the name of the county are also inscribed.

These are not the official Kansas Centennial medals, however, which were struck at the U.S. Mint, but are issued by a private firm; 4-H club members are selling them for $1 each, it is reported.

Letters To The Editor

collector and am pleased by the articles on coins and currency found in your publication.

I knew at once that this was the coin paper for me to subscribe to; three dollars a year is too hard to pass up by me. I am enclosing a three dollar postal money order for the next 52 issues. Thank you.

Glenn L. Osmun
Junction City, Kansas

I like your paper so much I leave my used copies in the New York subway. I also push it on every occasion. We must get your circulation over the fabulous fifties!

Bernard Ross
Yonkers, N. Y.

In your article on Cuban money February 2 issue, you say these notes were printed in England and East Germany. Looks to me like they were also printed by the American Bank Note Company. Am I right or not?

Dan Schmidt
Neligh, Nebr.

We were both right. We said notes were "principally" printed in England and East Germany. Our illustration was a photo of a foreign printed note (back photo) and an American Bank Note Company specimen (front)—Editor.

Enclosed find ad copy for next available issue of Coin World. Please set it up as you see fit and use as much space as you deem necessary in order to effectively display the ad. Incidentally, the response from my prior 1955 Double Date Cent ad has been excellent.

Manuel J. Lipson
Boston, Mass.

If any of your advertisers are in doubt as to the results that are achieved in your publication, have them write to me. Our ad in the February 9 issue brought in more mail and orders than in any ad we have run in the past twelve years. Even as of today, the ad is still pulling down excellent results.

When I first read the ad and noted my special advertising 1934-S cents (which, of course, is a printer's error transposing the 3 and 4 which should be 43-S cents) I was rather perturbed. Many inquiries came in sarcastically inquiring as to whether I had discovered a new variety of the 1934 cents.

As a matter of fact, the amusing part is that several people sent in orders for the 1934-S cents, which of course, were returned to them with a letter of explanation.

Again, let me state that I am well pleased with your paper and will attempt to map out a series of ads for future publications.

Montrose Coin Gallery
Montrose, Calif.

Yes, by all means re-print the list of books in booklet form. This is something that is needed in the numismatic field.

I would like to see you continue this publication of numismatic books by making your next list one of books published in English for all the other countries. Then if possible publish a list of the books published in the foreign countries in other languages. Upon completion of this enormous task publish the entire listing in book form.

The showing of average prices for all the books is also a great help. It may not be completely accurate (and what is these days), but at least it is a guide to go by.

Numismatic Bibliography by Col. P. O. Sigler is a fine publication. However, it does not show any values for the books nor is it up to date, due to so many publications in the past ten years. That is why I think you should continue the fine job you've started.

Herman L. Boraker
President
Arkansas Valley Coin Club
Colorado

There has been quite a bit of advertising offering plated 1943 cents for sale and I have seen no adverse comments.

There seems to be objections to cleaned coins, but none to the replated. Odd, isn't it? Both have been changed.

Personally I would rather have a cent that has been cleaned than a plated one. A cleaned cent will usually revert to its darker color given time, but some plated samples sent to me developed rust spots.

Mrs. J. B. Kendall
Warren, Ohio

I wish to express my gratitude to your entire staff for the fine work on "Coin World." The numismatic field has long needed a true journalistic publication such as yours.

It is my fervent hope that you will continue your present editorial policy and report all happenings in the numismatic world.

E. E. McCombs
Clinton, Tenn.

Your last issue was simply too much! How do you continue to put out such a perfectly wonderful newspaper week after week? That book list was something I'd really been waiting for. I am carefully preserving this issue, cutting out the book list and encasing it in cellophane so it won't get damaged!

Your issue on auctions was tremendous. All your issues are good, but the books and auctions I felt were really outstanding. I do hope you will go ahead with your plans to put the book section in a booklet form. You can put my name on the top of your order list.

The prices you quoted on the books were a little odd, I felt but since I would be delighted to buy the out-of-print ones at the prices you quoted, you can leave them that way!

You would really be surprised at the favorable comments I hear all the time about your newspaper, but the majority of people just don't take the time to let you know. Look at how long it took me to get around to it. Keep up the good work.

Expression Dates From 18th Century

The American expressions, "two bits" and "four bits", go back to the 18th century when the "piece of eight" was in use.

The "piece of eight" was the Spanish milled dollar, valued at eight reales. This coin, along with its fractional parts, such as the two real and four real pieces, were the chief coins of the American colonial period, and were the models for the silver dollar, half dollar and quarter.

Each quarter of the "piece of eight" equalled two reales, and was equal to the American quarter. By the same token, a one-real piece equalled 12½ cents. That was called a "bit", so the quarter naturally came to be known as "two bits", and the half dollar as "four bits".

These expressions have died out in Eastern United States, but may still be heard in the West where the Spanish money lingered the longest. Spanish money was legal tender in the United States as late as 1857, at which time it was outlawed.

Pastel Coins Plague Britishers During 20's

England has had its coinage troubles, including coins that turned pink, according to a talk on money made recently to members of the Wembley, England, History Society by R. J. Martin, a retired bank official.

He described the days when bank clerks paid out to their customers in gold, and when they did so by weight, rather than denomination.

"A gold coin rarely lost its weight," said Martin. "If it lost as much as twopence in value through loss of weight a sovereign was withdrawn from circulation."

After gold coinage was withdrawn there then became a silver problem, he said, for the price of silver rose so much that at one time the silver in a half-crown was worth 3s. 4d.

The Coinage Act of 1920 allowed the amount of silver in coins to be reduced from 92½ per cent to 50 per cent, but it did not state what the other 50 per cent was to be.

At first the Bank of England mixed silver and copper in equal proportions, but the resultant coins eventually turned pink and green and wore badly. Later nickel and another metal were also introduced to make a better "silver" coin.

The industrial use of silver increased so much during the last war that there again became a silver shortage and in 1946 a new Act permitted the manufacture of the present cupra-nickel coins.

He estimated that there were still about 200-million gold sovereigns about the world.

"People on the continent have more faith in English gold than in their own fluctuating currencies and their own money," he said.

Reading Club In 21st Year

To lead it during its 21st year of activity, the Reading, Pa., Coin Club has elected Raymond Krol as president, according to a club report. Other new officers include:

The Rev. Ronald Yocum, vice president; Robert Gerber, secretary, and Richard Hunsinger, treasurer.

The Reading club, founded in 1940, meets on the second and fourth Mondays at the Reading Company Y.M.C.A., 6th and Oley Streets, in Reading.

No Mexican Centavos In Some Years

No coins of one centavo were issued by the Mexico City Mint in the years 1907-09, 1917-19, 1931 and 1932.

From 1901 to 1905, coins of this value bore the legend "Republica Mexicana". In 1905, the legend was changed to the now familiar "Estados Unidos Mexicanos", and both types were coined in that year.

In 1915, in addition to the normal issue, the Zapatista one centavo was also coined. This had the same design but was smaller, and is generally classes as a Revolutionary coin.

From 1950 on, the design was changed and all were the smaller size. (Boletin de la sociedad numismatica de Mexico).

Collectors Form Club

Coin Collectors in Decatur County, Indiana, are invited to attend meetings of a new club recently formed, the Jun-Ad Coin Club, which plans to hold sessions at the Decatur County Y.M.C.A. in Greensburg.

Willard Jones, member of the American Numismatic Association, was serving as temporary chairman, pending the election.

Hearts Mark Holiday Meet

The second February meeting of the Carthage, Mo., Coin Club was scheduled for Tuesday evening, February 28, in the Y.M.C.A., 526 South Main, at 7 o'clock, and visitors were welcome, according to a report from the club's secretary, Mrs. Hal McKelvey.

The previous session was held on Valentine's Day, with each member being given a red heart with his name on it. Club president Jim Parnell conducted the business meeting, and decorated Valentine cup cakes and coffee were served.

The Carthage club meets on the second and fourth Tuesdays, at 7 p.m., at the Y.

Lincoln Land Coin Club Forms; June Show Planned

Springfield, Ill., now has a second coin collectors' group, with the organization recently of the Lincoln Land Coin Club, reported by one of its founders, Walter McMann, general chairman of the last coin show sponsored by the Central Illinois Numismatic Association, also in Springfield.

First project of the new club is slated to be a two-day coin show and auction, set for June 17 and 18 at the Abraham Lincoln Hotel in Springfield. The show is planned to run from 10 a.m. to 11 p.m. daily, with free admission to the public.

The auction is scheduled for Saturday evening, at 7:30, in the private room separate from the rest of the show. The entire mezzanine has been reserved for bourse tables and exhibits. Security is to be provided.

Officials for the show are veterans of other organizations and previous shows, according to McMann. Bourse table fees will be $15 for the two days, and will be placed in the order of reservation. These should be made to Dave Bowers, 1105 North Park, or Arthur Faucon, 1605 East Glenn, both Springfield.

High grade auction material is solicited, not to exceed five lots per consignor. Cost will be 50 cents per lot, with a deadline of May 1. Auction co-chairmen are Jim Humphrey, 1126 South 9th, and Ernie Schultz, 1233 North 5th, both Springfield. There will be no mail bidding and no reserve prices.

Exhibits are also invited, with the requirement that exhibitors must accompany their displays, which must be framed or in their own cases.

Dyersburg Club Starts

Dyersburg, Tenn., is the home of a new coin club organized recently, the Dyer County Numismatic Club, with 46 persons attending the initial meeting.

Plans for the future include special programs for young collectors.

At the first session, a new twist on an old game was played. Instead of guessing how many coins in a jar, the members estimated how much would be bid for the 1913 "V" nickel to be auctioned in California, with guesses ranging from $15,000 to $50,000.

Closest estimate to the actual successful bid will receive a special award.

First president of the new club is A. C. Bridgewater of Dyersburg.

The Romance of MONEY

By Ted Hammer

From our readers:

Q. Did you ever hear of Brown money? A. In both Ireland and Devonshire, the word "brown" was used for copper coins, which became brown in passing from hand to hand in circulation. Q. Which leg is missing in the three-legged buffalo nickel?

Ted Hammer

A. The right front leg is missing on some of the 1937-D bison five-cent coins. Buyers are warned to inspect such coins carefully, as many regular nickels have been made into phony freaks with a tool or acid used to remove the leg.

Q. A recent news dispatch referred to a copper nose coin. What is that?

A. This was a nickname given debased silver coins of Henry VIII. The debased coins, with full face of Henry VIII showed wear, especially on the nose, with the inferior base metal used in lieu of silver showing through. Using base metal instead of silver was not new, but occurred in ancient Rome and at numerous other times down through history when monarchs needed money for debts or war.

Q. On a recent television show it was stated that $153,000 in the old blanket size U. S. banknotes had no value and that the federal government would not redeem them. Are there any such genuine U.S. Notes?

A. If you stated the facts correctly someone on the show goofed. Notes issued by private banks before the government notes appeared in 1861 are not redeemed by the government, since it did not issue them. Even the "yellowbacks" (gold certificates) are redeemable at face value although federal authorities say it is illegal to possess them.

Q. I have an 1844 $2.50 gold piece with the mintmark D (for Denver) although you recently wrote that the Denver mint did not begin operations until 1906? Was this an error and should it not have read 1806?

A. The Denver Mint coins first appeared in 1906. The 1844 gold coin with a mintmark D was minted in Dahlonega, Ga., where a mint was operated from 1838 until the Civil War began in 1861. Only gold coins were struck there.

Japanese Specialist Is Guest At New Jersey Society Meeting

Charles Altz, specialist in Japanese numismatics, was the main speaker at a recent meeting, the 325th, of the New Jersey Numismatic Society of Newark.

Stating that the first Japanese coinage dated from 708 A.D., he traced it through the different eras, illustrating with examples from his own collection.

Altz said there were counterfeit, early crude pieces, cut off the end of opium pipes and the like, with anything round that had a hole in the middle serving as money. Chinese coins were readily accepted.

Silver money was issued in Japan in lumps and chunks, with a local stamping. After Commodore Perry's visit in the Meiji area, the Japanese coins began to resemble more nearly those of the western world, and English appeared on some of them.

Japan also issued money for Korea. There was some debasement of coinage early in the 20th century. Brass, aluminum and tin appeared in Japanese coinage in the late war years. During the American occupation from 1945 to 1947, U.S. authorities controlled the issuing of money.

Altz showed invasion issues of paper money for occupied and "puppet" countries, including some which were intended to be used in the United States, when, as and if Japan won the war.

Utah Club Contest To Gain Members

Members of the Utah Numismatic Society of Salt Lake City are working on a contest for new members, the winner to be the one who sponsors the most new admissions to the club before July 1. A prize will be awarded.

When the 1961 officers were installed, Karl Dean, retiring president, was presented with a $5 gold piece in recognition of his service. The other retiring officers received cast aluminum medals of the club seal, made by Dave Sugden.

The Fred Zastrow Memorial Collection received some contributions, including a 1960 proof set and 1896 silver dollar from Dean; an 1885-O dollar from Lowell D. Rouse, and a 1937 Oregon Trail half dollar from Clifford Crane.

The collection is now valued at about $500. It is the hope of the founding members and officers that it will continue to grow each year and form an heritage for future generations of collectors.

Formally, it will be known as the "Utah Numismatic Society Coin Collection in Memory of Fred W. Zastrow". Members who do not have coins they would like to donate are asked to give money with which the club can buy coins.

Los Angeles Date Changed

The Los Angeles, Calif., Coin Club has announced a change in its regular meeting date from Friday, March 3, to Friday, March 10, because of the convention being held by the Numismatic Association of Southern California.

At the last meeting, the club's 395th, attendance totalled 287 members and guests. Speaker was Dr. Verner G. Rich on the subject of numismatic literature, in which he is a specialist.

Collectors in the Los Angeles area who are interested in the Los Angeles club are requested to contact the secretary, Carolyn Olson, at 6106 Southside Drive, Los Angeles 22.

Medallets Called Civil War Tokens

Cent-Size Campaign Issues Struck As 1864 Propaganda

By Russell Rulau

The use of Civil War Tokens as current coin had practically ceased by the summer of 1864, when their use was illegal. The Republican conventions that summer chose Abraham Lincoln, the incumbent, and Andrew Jackson, the War Democrat governor of Tennessee, as running mates.

The Republicans, known in this year as the Union Party, felt quite assured of success, since the War of the Rebellion was then moving rapidly toward a victorious conclusion.

The Democrats, who were far from conceding their defeat and even felt confident, chose the early war hero, General George B. (Little Mac) McClellan and J. H. Pendleton as their standard bearers.

It had been the practice since the Jackson era to issue presidential campaign medals as political propaganda by all parties. Such was also the case in the 1864 campaign.

The die-makers and engravers of the East, mainly in Philadelphia and New York, issued a number of medallets with the portraits of the four aspirants. Some of these issues were in cent size, and thus have come to be included as Civil War Cents.

McClellan had been pictured on some issues of 1863 (such as Fuld Dies 138, 140, 141, 143) when he wore the mantle of success at Antietam and before his presidential aspirations. These are properly classed as Civil War Tokens. Lincoln had not been so honored, except on the problematical Fuld Die 134, one of the Rhode Island muling series. Neither vice-presidential nominee had been pictured on the monetary substitutes at all.

Both Hettrich-Gutttag and the Fuld classify all these cent-size medallets as Civil War Tokens as have most other researchers in the field. Although some collectors question them as tokens, these pieces are commonly found in unpicked lots of Civil War Tokens.

J. D. DeWitt in his "A Century of Campaign Buttons 1789-1889", considers all the Lincoln and McClellan issues (Fuld Dies 124 thru 143 except Die 134, the Rhode Island Lincoln portrait) as campaign medallets. Such inclusion, however, is too broad. There is definite proof from contemporary newspaper articles that most of these tokens circulated as one cent tokens. Unfortunately a number of rare varieties were struck especially for contemporary coin collectors, creating rare variations.

Russell Rulau

Die 138, the Bridgens portrait of McClellan issued in New York City as part of the extensive Knickerbocker currency, most assuredly circulated as fiat token and was issued in large quantities. It remains one of the commonest of Civil War Tokens.

It can be found with the "Knickerbocker Currency" reverse (undated, but generally conceded to be of 1863 fabrication); the "Horrors of War—Blessings of Peace" reverse (undated, probably an 1864 campaign emission) and the "United States Copper" reverse (like the Knickerbocker type, a very common token which certainly circulated).

Another McClellan token, Die 140, can be found with a reverse which states "McClellan Medal for One Cent." This clearly shows intent on the part of the issuer to have the token circulate, and it remains quite common today. It is dated 1863. A third die, Fuld 141, is also dated 1863 and survives in too many copies to have been intended solely as a campaign medallet.

Die 143, another McClellan piece, has a close copy of the Indian Head Cent reverse of 1864, stating flatly "One Cent".

So we must assume that some of the McClellan pieces were tokens in the strict sense of a circulating medium, and that others (dies 138A, 139, 142) were purely campaign medallets and, if they circulated at all as money, it was then illegally.

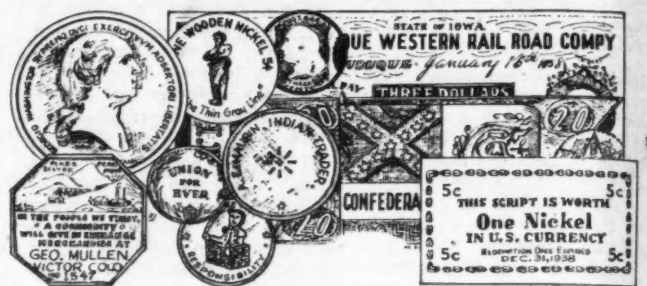

With the Lincoln issues, fine hairs need not be split to ascertain the true from the Fantasy CWT. The Rhode Island die, 134, previously alluded to, was probably a true token, although its rarity puts it in a class by itself—perhaps neither token nor medallet, but a mule produced by or for collectors to create new varieties. It is found with several reverses, one being the scarce East Boston Coaches reverse of 1837, which is included under Hard Times Tokens.

All the other Lincoln obverses are clearly intended as campaign buttons, although one die, 127, can be found muled with two different 1863 reverses.

General George B. (Little Mac) McClellan, an early Civil War hero, was pictured on medallets of 1863 when he was acclaimed for his success at Antietam. Lincoln and McClellan dominated a number of issues circulated during the 1864 presidential campaign. Most authorities agree the issues of 1863 definitely belong in the category of Civil War tokens.

The Society Of Token, Medal &

Obsolete Paper Money Collectors

Editor: Dr. George Fuld, Box 6047, Baltimore, Md.

None of these Lincoln pieces are common, and are seldom found worn greatly from circulation. Only five or six of the 50 different Lincoln pieces actually circulated as money in all likelihood.

Both Johnson and Pendleton appear on medallets also; here again not intended originally as token coinage, but they definitely did circulate as tokens.

It will be apparent to the reader that extreme difficulty would be encountered in separating tokens from campaign medals, except where the medals were larger than cent size, hence previous cataloguers have included all such issues, rather than exclude some which probably did serve the monetary usage.

It should be noted here that frivolous mulings of the 1864 (and even 1868) campaign medal obverses with earlier reverses has taken place since the War. Such mules are almost always rare as their strikers intended they should be. The stigma of "mint sport" or "private speculation" thus

(Editor's Note: There is definite proof that many of the rare mulings were struck, however, during the Civil War as reconstructed from die break evidence.)

The Lincoln and McClellan issues, whatever their history may would attach to such fabrications, have been, constitute a desirable part of the series of Civil War Tokens. Since they cannot be logically disassociated from the rest of the series, the author feels their inclusion is warranted.

Future articles will attempt to treat with certain other interesting CWTs. Errata in the article which can be corrected by readers will be appreciated. Write the author at 4007 Casita Way, San Diego 15, Calif.

Embossed Shell, Mirror Store Cards To Be Listed

Embossed card of B. T. Babbitt, of New York City, a coffee merchant of 1863, a firm still in business today, although it has branched out into other fields, is a rare piece in the collection of Maurice Gould, Chestnut Hill, Mass., who supplied photograph. This token has a gilded base metal obverse and a colored cardboard reverse.

Two of the founders of the Southern California Exonomist Society, Ralph A. (Curley) Mitchell and Russell Rulau, are now nearing completion on a detailed listing of all known varieties of Embossed Shell and Mirror Store Cards issued in this country, Canada and Mexico.

These rare items were mainly issued, according to Mitchell, in the years 1866 to 1876, as advertising pieces, and many are in imitation of the gold double eagles of the period or the Liberty seated silver dollars of that decade. These pieces differ from all other tokens in that the design is pressed, or embossed, on the thin shell, rather than being die-struck or cast from molds.

"There has been no major listing of these intriguing items since 1881," according to Rulau, who added today, "so little is known about these pieces that in the 73 years of the publication of a major numismatic journal of today, only one time, in 1920, has any detailed reference been made to them." Rulau, an Air Force career sergeant, and Mitchell, an oil company executive, hope to correct this situation.

According to Dr. George Fuld, this major advance in numismatic knowledge will be published in serial form in the "Exonomist", quarterly publication of the new Society of Medal, Token and Paper Money Collectors.

Fuld is editor and president of the society. Fuld, of Baltimore, Md., requests that collectors having knowledge of these tokens contact Russell Rulau, 4007 Casita Way, San Diego 15, Calif.

"Please do not send any tokens through the mails unless they are asked for," Fuld emphasized, "and then only by registered mail or express." In most cases, photos, rubbings or descriptions are adequate for research purposes. Full credit for all contributors to this listing will be given in the article.

The Exonomist, which is slated for first publication date early in March, is distributed free to members of the national society. It will not be available through commercial channels.

Glubs, Mocks New Coinage?

ATTENTION: James Thomas Mangan, Celestia premier! The Saturday Review of Literature reports this story in a recent issue:

A space ship landed on Earth in a city street, and a Martian stepped out next to a parking meter.

He stared at it for a moment, and then turned to a passer-by and asked:

"Say, d'y'a happen to have two glubs for a mock?"

Token Marks R. R. Opening

Unknown to most collectors, even specialists in transportation tokens, a special transportation token was issued by the Canadian National Railways on July 8, 1955, to celebrate the official opening of the Kitimat-Terrace, British Columbia, line.

The token was actually a large ticket made on aluminum plate. The upper half was good for one coach class continuous passage from Terrace, while the lower half was the return ticket.

These tokens or tickets were given to the guests and authorities invited to the official opening. Probably the majority of them were kept as souvenirs.

This information is from Frederick Smith, Sherbrooke, Quebec, Canada, editor of the bulletin of the Sherbrooke Coin Club.

Cromwell Win Medal Subject

The first campaign medal ever struck for issue to British soldiers and sailors was in 1650, after Cromwell's victory over the Scots at Dunbar.

No more were struck until Lord Nelson's agent, a man named Dunbar, issued some at his own expense. These were of gold, silver and bronze, and were issued to all officers and men who had fought at the Battle of the Nile.

They cost him 2,000 English pounds.

Paul Hamm Will Head First Exonomist Group

First general meeting in the United States for exonomists went down in history Saturday, January 28, at the Conference Building, Balboa Park, San Diego, Calif., with election of charter officials for the Southern California Exonomist Society.

Paul Hamm, of San Diego, will serve as president; Ralph A. (Curley) Mitchell, of Fullerton, is vice president; Russell Rulau, San Diego, secretary, and Thelma Case, treasurer.

Board members include Leonel C. Panosh, San Diego, chairman and three-year-term; Pauline Ney, Santa Monica, to-year term; Dr. Calvert Emmons, Ontario, one-year term. Panosh and Rulau were named to draft a charter and by-laws and submit them for approval at the next board meeting.

Panosh was named delegate to the August meeting of the Society of Medal, Token and Paper Money Collectors; a letter of welcome from this group was read at the session.

The next meeting of the Southern California Exonomist Society is planned to be held March 4 in conjunction with the Numismatic Association of Southern California, which meets March 3-5 in Los Angeles.

Articles are being accepted for publication in The Exonomist, to be published under the direction of Rulau and Mitchell, associate editors. Rulau will also publish a quarterly bulletin of local interest, to be assisted by Thomas R. McDaniel, of La Mesa.

American Numismatic Association membership will be sought by the group, and a subscription to Coin World is to be arranged along with an informal working affiliation with the San Diego County Inter-Club Numismatic Council.

Rulau announced an article, "Embossed or Shell Store Cards," by Rulau and Mitchell, is nearing completion. Photographs for the article by Maurice M. Gould, Chestnut Hill, Mass., were shown.

Trading of exonomist items followed the formal business meeting.

Broken Bank Note List Grows

Specialist Classifies Many Bills

In my previous article, I listed some 13 different definitions most commonly used in describing broken bank notes. In anticipation of letters to come, let me say that the 13 listed definitions could easily have been 113! However, at this point my

Hank Bleciuk intention is to keep the "waters from becoming too muddy." I remember a friend of mine who had taken so many antibiotics for his illness that he finally exclaimed, "everytime I sneeze I cure someone!"

Without attempting any kind of a cure, let us continue with this guide list of definitions.

Die-proof—An engraving on India or rice paper, used for various reasons. Engraving firms often used these die-proofs to show prospective customers samples of their work.

Dix note—This is the $10 denomination note of the Citizens Bank of Louisiana at New Orleans. It derived its name Dix from the French and appears on the back of the note. This was a very solvent bank, its notes were popular and circulated freely and were called "Dixies."

Engraving — By engraving I mean the figures, lettering and numbers. Many engravings are the work of two or more engravers. Since each engraver is a specialist in his particular field, i.e. lettering, figures, etc., a note is very difficult to counterfeit successfully. The time required to prepare a finished plate usually ranged from one to four months, depending on the complexity of the subject matter.

Fare ticket — This is scrip, printed in the form of a bank note, and entitles the bearer to transportation for a certain number of miles. The most common are the South Carolina Railroad issue.

Fiber paper—A rag content paper having red or blue silk fibers scattered throughout. Used principally as a safeguard against counterfeiting.

Foxing—To become discolored or stained. This is a by-product of age. Different compositions of papers determine to what extent this occurs.

This Multi-State Note was issued in Michigan and payable in New York; at times there was a three-state arrangement to make listing quite complicated.

Georgia imprinted its redeemed notes with "paid 25 pr ct Gold" as this redeemed specimen shows.

Here is an example of a parish note, actually a county note if Louisiana's designation for counties is translated.

Fractional bank notes—A note issued in a denomination of less than one dollar. These are found in many odd denominations such as 1c, 2c, 3, 6½c, 12½c, 25c etc. As bank notes or scrip, they are not to be confused with the fractional currency notes issued by the government between 1862 and 1876.

Issue—The entire printing production of a particular note. Some banks were in business long enough to have had several issues.

These different issues often had a completely different engraving than the previous issue.

Mormon notes—Notes issued by the Mormons at either Ohio or Utah. The Kirtland Safety Society Bank notes, issued at Kirtland, Ohio were one of the first issues. These were often signed by Rigdon and Smith, organizers of the Mormon colony then in Ohio.

Multi-state notes—Notes that were issued by a bank or firm in one state and payable in another state. At times even three states were involved and notes of this type are difficult to classify. They are often listed in all the states involved.

Parish notes—These are actually county notes. However, Louisiana chose to call its political subdivisions parishes, rather than counties and still does. These were mostly issued during the Civil War.

Post notes—Notes payable at some specified future date. Many banks issued these notes for circulation at a stated rate of interest. While usually of the same appearance as regular bank notes, they in addition carried a redemption date and paid interest.

Proof note—(Although this was explained in a previous article, I am including it here as a matter of reference.) A note, printed on either India or rice paper, and submitted to the customer for final approval before actual printing of the issue commenced.

Raised note—This is a counterfeit in the sense that the denomination of a genuine note was altered to a higher denomination. Raised notes had the original denomination either eaten out (bleached by acid) or cut out, and another denomination put in its place. At times the raising was done by hand by skillfully changing the original by pen.

Redeemed notes — Notes that were taken out of circulation. Sometimes these were paid off in specie and at times were replaced by another issue. Redeemed notes were then cancelled by an ink stamp, a cut or cut out cancel, pen notation, etc. Some Georgia notes bear the imprint "Paid 25 pr ct Gold."

Speaking of being taken out of circulation, I must "circulate" to the post office or there will be a blank space in Coin World next week.

Church Bus Trip Brings New Token

The American Vecturist Association has reported a new transportation token, issued in Andover, New Hampshire, which is also a commemorative piece.

Struck in brass, size of a silver dollar, the token was issued to be used on a special trip of a chartered bus from Andover to Boston on December 30, originated by the New England Regional Committee of the Unitarian Church.

The Committee is the high school youth organization of that church, with the national organization being called "Liberal Religious Youth", indicated on the token by the initials "LRY".

Each year a conference is held, and the delegates from Boston charter a bus to attend. Round trip fare is paid in advance and, this year, a token was issued for the return trip.

As the round trip cost $5.50, face value of the token was $2.75 but after the trip the face value was lost. Only 250 were struck. A few are available from the editor of The Fare Box and may be obtained by sending 50 cents and a stamped envelope to John M. Coffee, P. O. Box 1204, Boston 4, Massachusetts.

A few Unitarian Church-fostered tokens, struck for the annual Liberal Religious Youth conference return trip from Boston to Andover, New Hampshire, in December are available to transportation token collectors. John M. Coffee, P. O. Box 1204, Boston, 4, Massachusetts, is accepting orders.

Plastic Coins May Be 'Hot' To Discourage Counterfeiters

Plastic coinage has been recommended by J. H. James, deputy-master and Comptroller of England's Royal Mint, in his recent annual report to the Crown.

"The case for plastics is quite a serious one and deserves examination", he said.

"If modern feeling on coins is only that they should exist and be convenient, then a plastic token is surely the ultimate answer—easy to carry, durable, and very cheap to make", different colors for different denominations.

Aside from sentimental criticism of plastic coins by those who feel that only metal should be used, the only practical criticism of plastic coins, particularly in higher denominations, would be the relative ease of counterfeiting.

This criticism has been answered by experiments which put radio-active isotopes into the coins. These would then cause a Geiger counter to "tick" when they were passed in front of it in a bank or elsewhere.

Two English companies are experimenting to produce paper money which will foil the counterfeiters, also. A thin strip in the bank note is processed so it will emit electrical impulses. These are picked up by an electronic detector similar to an "electric eye", and transformed into sound waves for the tester to hear.

James sums up his recommendation by saying, "If people really want quality and value in their money, why do they not protest against cupro-nickel, brass, and paper?"

The lot of the counterfeit coin—never a happy one in recent years—may grow even tougher in Britain with the introduction of the plastic coins, according to H. R. Mahor, in London.

Banks, stores, etc. will test suspicious coins in special machines

Gallons Of Coins Help Buy Auto

When a coin collector buys a car, what does he buy it with? Coins, of course.

At least that is what Carl Wester, Knoxville, Tenn., collector did recently. He had eight gallons of Lincoln cents, left over from looking for the scarce ones, when a car salesman called.

So, part of the deal was that the coins be the down payment. It took three men to get them to the bank to be counted. It was the 62-year-old Wester's first car.

Mrs. Wester had been after him to get rid of the money, in cans and old kettles, because it was "under foot and in the way". Car salesman Dick Caudle happened to call when the Westers were in the mood. The result was logical.

English Turn Up Old Coins

People find coins in England as well as in the United States, but across the ocean they are more likely to find them in the ground, or at least, those are the ones that get talked about.

Three coins have recently turned up, two in the Daventry area, one in Suffolk. The latter, dug up by a Woodbridge gardener, was readily identified as a Henry III silver penny. It is now in the Ipswich Museum.

Of the other cases, one bears the head of Queen Victoria on one side, and on the other is a figure on horseback, the date 1837, and the words "To Hanover". The coin is the size of a sixpence but considerably thinner.

The other coin, just over a quarter inch in diameter, has the same obverse, and on the reverse is the date 1848, with the words "Model Eighth Farthing".

which will instantly reject those without the right combination of isotopes.

Science is putting paid to the counterfeiter—as earlier, improved coining put the clipper and sweeper out of business. The clipper, as the name suggests, did simply that. He clipped the edges of unmilled coins. The sweeper shook gold coins vigorously together in a leather bag and made a profit on the gold dust he collected.

The counterfeiting, clipping and sweating industries reached a peak about the time of Henry VIII—in spite of that monarch's hearty manner of having offenders plunged in boiling oil—and flourished for another century or so.

The rot in these industries set in with the founding of the Bank of England in 1694.

The deplorable state of the coinage was one of the major difficulties confronting the new directors. There were still coins in circulation that had seen service in the Middle Ages; there were debased coins of the reign of Henry VIII, and of Edward VI, and there was scarcely an unclipped silver coin.

The Reform of Currency Act that was passed in 1695 imposed a penalty of 500 pounds and the branding of the letter R upon the right cheek of anyone dealing in clippings.

During May, June and July, 1695, 576 bags of silver coins were

Columnist Fights Odd Coin Names

With Australia making a change to decimal coinage, using the advice of F. Leland Howard of the United States Mint, many suggestions for naming the new money have been brought forward, among them all sorts of animals peculiar to Australia.

This idea is repugnant to many, among them a staff member of the Perth "West Australian", who wrote as follows:

"It is to be hoped that sane counsel will prevail if we change to decimal currency and that we will use commonsense terms in use all over the world to name the coins.

"The current suggestions for naming them after wallabies, goannas and whatnot are in line with all the rest of the folklore rubbish that helps to keep us pictured as a backward nation.

"It is time we stopped kidding ourselves about bush fancies and woke up to the fact that more than half of us live in cities and have no knowledge of the bush or its ways.

"Dollars and cents are known all over the world and should be used by us."

brought to the Exchequer. They should have weighed 18,451 lb.; actually they weighed but 9,480 lb.—a depreciation of nearly 50 per cent.

The Re-coining Act of January 21, 1696, did much to improve matters, but the best method of dealing with coiner and clipper is not the use of the gibbet and the stake, but of improved minting.

Today, better coining methods offer little scope for the clipper, while the counterfeiter is similarly handicapped. It is practically impossible to counterfeit perfectly.

Esperantists Issue Coins Sans Country

Collectors of foreign money have now a new coinage to collect which is unique in that it is intended to be spent but belongs to no country.

This is the "Stelo", (Star), of the International Association of Esperantists or "Universala Ligo", which has recently been issued in coin form. Previously it had been in paper only, in the form of coupons or "kuponoj".

This monetary unit, the stelo, has been in use for a dozen years and circulated in different countries among members of the Association.

Now the Mint of the "Royaume des Pays-Bas" under the direction of Dr. J. W. A. van Hengel, has coined pieces in denomination of one, five and 10 stelos (steloj) with the value set up by a Holland bank.

This money can be used in every country, even by non-Esperantists. Value of one stelo is .25 Dutch Florins, .35 new French Francs, or .07 of one American dollar.

Esperanto is an international language, recognized by UNESCO, and taught in many schools in Europe and in England. (La Vie Judiciaire, Paris; L'Heure d'Etre, Paris).

'D' Falls Off Doctored Coin

Checks have been known to "bounce", but a Kansas coin dealer recently had the novel experience of having a coin do the same thing.

A. C. Boster, Neodesha, coin dealer, bought a 1916-D Mercury dime, and later sold it. It "bounced" back to him when the "D" fell off. Seems that somebody had "doctored" a 1916 Philadelphia Mint coin.

Boster advises everybody, dealers and collectors alike, to examine their scarcer coins pretty closely. He plans to do so, himself.

Most American Coinage Variable

Hardly a single denomination of United States coinage or period has been without die varieties besides the well-known large cents.

In 10 consecutive issues of early dimes, there are six, with Yeoman listing the 1814 small and large dates, 1920 small and large O, 1821 small and large dates, 1823 small and large E's, 1828 small and large dates and 1829 small, medium and large 10 cents.

Almost Everyone Prefers America's First Family of Coin Albums

THE LIBRARY OF COINS

By Any Standard, Still The Best!

Complete visibility and complete protection, the two most-wanted features of a coin album, are presented for the first time by THE LIBRARY OF COINS. Bound like books, handsome and compact, each Library of Coins volume displays and protects its coins between two sliding panels of clear, tough plastic. Each coin "porthole" has printed next to it full data on mint mark and quantity minted. Each volume contains a brief background story on the coins, giving both the novice and advanced collector helpful information, including a listing of the rare dates.

Measuring 8 1/4" x 6 1/4", the volumes are low priced, sturdily manufactured, and permanently bound in a variety of identifying colors for the various denominations. Their compact size permits the storing of a large coin collection in very small space. Backbones are clearly gold stamped so that they are as readily identifiable as are books.

The Library of Coins represents the first major innovation in high grade coin albums in more than 30 years, and was several years in development. Designed by numismatists, the Library of Coins is designed to satisfy the needs and desires of numismatists. Write for descriptive circular on the Library of Coins.
